REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

GOVERNOR,
JAMES A. BEAVER, of Centre county.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,
W. T. DAVIES, of Bradford county.

JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT,
WILLIAM HENRY RAWLE, of Phila.

SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS,
JOHN M. GREER, of Butler county.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

JUDAS ISCARIOT, Benedict Arnold and Charles J. Guiteau are the brilliant trio of criminals.

JOHN BULL now dines on American beef after losing his money on an American race horse.

DEMOCRATIC papers take more interest in the movements of their Independent assistants than they do in the ticket to be nominated by their own convention.

AND now Tom Marshall takes sides against the convention called to nominate his successor. Tom must have the "tooth ache," or else he lost money on the prize fight.

SOLON CHASE says people will be surprised at the size of his vote. Very likely they will be, and if Solon thinks the size will be very large he will be as much surprised as the rest.

THE New York Tribune estimates the losses to workingmen and employers already accruing from the strikers at over $1,150,000, and says the workingmen will exhaust the money in their treasuries in two weeks more.

SECRETARY CHANDLER, in view of the alarming state of affairs in Egypt, has ordered all the war ships of the Enropean squadron in the Mediterranean, to proceed at once to Alexandria to look after American interests.

SEVERAL members of congress have been talking about trying to bring about an adjournment as early as July 7th, but the resolution to that effect was laid on the table by the ways and means committee. Congress has scarcely warmed up to hard work yet.

CROW Indians are trying to exasperate the settlers in Wyoming territory by killing their cattle. This is the statement made to Governor Hoyt. Is it not just possible that the red men butcher the beasts to save themselves from starvation rather than to annoy the whites?

KING KALAKAUA instructed his confidential adviser, Hon. W. M Gibson, to form a new ministry, recently, which he did, and nominated himself to the chief position of Premier. From Mr. Gibson's action in taking such good care of himself we infer that he is not a timid man.

WEBB and Wade, the swimmers, who have names not unrelated to their web-footed calling, threaten to race in the water for two miles, within three weeks, at $500 a side. This would be making a match with promptness. A swimming contest spoken of in June sometimes comes off toward September, when the bathing season is far gone.

"THE future of the United States" is receiving a great deal of attention from college graduates this year. Of course it is quite right and proper for these young orators to take an interest in the future welfare of their country, but as it requires a great effort to maintain a respectable existence nowadays, wouldn't it be a good plan for them to interest themselves in their own future? The country is all right at present and capable of taking care of itself, for a few years longer, anyhow.

That Political Conspiracy.

The Scranton Republican has been taking a careful survey of the political field, and finds that the situation presents an interesting study.

learns that at a time when the Republican party by its platform and its candidates, showed its willingness to keep the lead in the line of progressive politics, certain of its members imbued with the thought that they were not "born to blush unseen," and smarting under the impression that they had been overlooked in the distribution of political favors, entered into a conspiracy under the name of Independent Republicans for the overthrow of the regular organization. In order to justify their position the leaders of this revolt proclaimed themselves the opponents of "the boss system" in politics, and presuming upon the timidity of the masses they labored industriously to create the impression that all who adhered to the party flag were the slaves of the 'bosses." In this they make a mistake, as the people clearly saw that so much bitterness, as these would-be leaders manifested, could not emanate from an honest desire for reform.

This impression has been confirmed since the holding of the Independent convention, and many who were disposed at first to give the irreconcilables credit for candor and sincerity of purpose, have become so disgusted with their unreasonable arguments, their falshoods, their arrogance, and the extremes to which they are willing to go in order to defeat the regular party ticket that they will have no more of themselves or their sham reform sentiments. It may be set down as a certainty that the so-called Independent movement is twenty per cent. weaker now than it was the day Senator Stewart was nominated for governor, and that this condition is due to the attitude and actions of the members of that faction. Thinking men in the ranks of the Republican party—men of honest, independent views who are not reformers for revenge or for the sake of gaining office, are not to be gulled by the shallow-pated mountebanks who have put themselves in the front row of this year's crop of reformers.

We have never been the apologist of what we considered the shortcomings of party managers, but we do not think it is necessary to tear down the entire fabric to correct the mistakes of the leaders. There can be no successful party without leadership, a fact fully recognized already in the makeup of the Independent organization where there are more leaders than followers. If those occupying responsible positions err, that is not a sufficient reason for the destruction of the Republican party, as there is plenty of room within the lines to correct all arbitrary tendencies.

Judge Agnew recognizes this principle in his recent letter to that untamable organ of discontent, the Philadelphia Telegraph, which accused him of timidity, because he said: "I detest bossism, but I fear that the extirpation of the cancer by the knife might kill the patient." In his reply to the Telegraph's criticism, he says:

The power of the Independent ticket can be felt in the defeat only of the Republican party in the state. In the language of my letter to Mr. Mapes, "This is inevitable, for the Democracy, who are as wise as serpents, will take advantage of division." Democratic succes gives that party a four years lease of power in the state. This includes the Presidential election of 1884. Now, who taught you that the defeat of bossism, by a deep-seated chism in the party, is not fatal disruption, or that the death of Republicanism in 1882 will be followed by a happy resurrection in 1883? You are not the first one whose "foresight is not equal to his hindsight." You will find that many beside myself will regard your tragic heroism, simple suicide, to be punished by a stake through the body at the cross roads. Your quackery would use the knife, though you endangered the Union by the loss of Pennsylvania. It reminds me of a case of malpractice tried before us, when a heroic surgeon extirpated the liver as a huge tumor. Did he kill the patient? Certainly. A Democratic victory in 1884 is a reversal of the Republican policy of twenty years—is danger to the doctrine of protection—to the system of national currency, the revival of free trade notions, the resumption of Bourbonism, the renewal of bossism in the south, and of many dangers which, when you were a common-sense Republican, you never saw.

Judge Agnew is a consistent Independent, who does not believe that an explosion is better for illuminating purposes than the steady flame which burns through the night, and his advice is well worth heeding.

The Democrats have been hoping for much from the Independent defection, but their own troubles will shortly begin, as their convention takes place on the 28th inst. Stimulated by the hope of success because of the division in the Republican ranks, there bids fair to be a lively contest for control between the conservative few of strong corporation tendencies and those of radical views. The first symptoms of the struggle are shown in a widely circulated letter calculated to destroy the prospects of Hopkins for the gubernatorial nomination. In connection with the circular, which appears to be in the interest of Judge Trunkey, the statement is made that it emanates from Mr. Scott, of Erie, who is favorable to Hopkins because of his pro-corporation tendencies. The whole affair has the appearance of a trick for Trunkey, who will doubtless nominated in accordance with the agreement recently entered into in Philadelphia. The Democratic managers seem to think that with Trunkey in the field they could sweep the state in the face of the existing Republican dissensions, but unless all signs fail, they will have occasion to modify this opinion before election day.—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

ENGLAND alone imports about 10,000 tons of cork yearly, and the quantity is constantly increasing, notwithstanding the introduction of many substitutes. The cork harvest in Spain, France, Portugal and Italy, whence the principal part of this supply is obtained, is becoming every year more scanty, owing to the greed of growers, who have injured the stock of trees by stripping them of their bark too frequently. The tree which produces the most valuable cork does not come to maturity for a quarter of a century, and can only be barked to advantage every eight or ten years; but the temptation to make rapid profits has been too great to withstand, and the result has been the injury or ruin of many plantations. Some of the quick growing varieties produce an inferior, porous kind of corks, but the best are the slowest of growth. The French Government has lately given special encouragement to the formation of cork oak plantations in Algeria, and England is urged to do the same in India and in the western colonies.

COLONEL FREDERICK ROBIE has been named by the Republicans of Maine as the next Governor of that State, and the course of the canvass will undoubtedly prove that the choice was judicious. The convention showed that the party is united and enthusiastic. The practical subsidence of the Greenback craze leaves the Republicans in a much better position than in former campaigns. One of the marked features of the gathering at Portland was the presence of many men who have not acted with the party for some years, but who have become disgusted with Democratic fraud and Greenback vagaries, and have resumed their former political allegiance. Republican success in Maine this fall seems certain.

NEVADA MACKEY'S wife spends a thousand dollars a day in Paris, and still she is not happy.

Strikes and Strikers.

In an article on the above subject the Philadelphia North American offers the following hints:

"We see that some journals, presumably wanting to stand well with working classes, are arguing to prove that the right to strike is a natural right. This is waste of time. The right is not disputed seriously by anybody. The rights of man are as various as his temperament, but no man is ever in the full enjoyment of all his natural rights in a civilized community. It is not always for the interest of men to insist on the exercise of all their rights. In point of fact the very condition upon which the State exists and maintains justice between men requires that certain rights shall be waived and held in abeyance. That the right to fix the price for services to be rendered exists, and that its exercise cannot be hindered by law, at least justly, is one of the truths never disputed in any domain save that of absolute despotism. Were there nothing more to be discussed in connection with the prevalent labor troubles than the right mentioned, there could be no discussion whatever.

"But there is more involved than the right to sell service at a price fixed by its renderer. As the man who works really goes into the market to buy money with his labor, he can rightly sell, or refuse to sell, as he may deem fit, so the man who stands in the market to purchase labor with money may rightly give, or refuse to give, the price demanded. These rights are correlated. One cannot be said to exist and not the other. As the law does not permit a man to compel any other to render any service to him at any price, so no man can by law compel any other to employ him at any price whatever. Everything that has a market price is so much a commodity, and as a commodity must take the course of all commodities made the subject of contract. The relations between the employer and employed are strictly the relations of contract. No man renders service to another for wages save under an express or implied contract. But the contract is susceptible of change by mutual consent, and morally and legally, there can be no change of the terms of the contract without mutual consent. So, when one party to such a contract makes the necessities of the other an occasion for forcing the contract, violence is done to the normal relations between the parties.

"As the case now stands in the striking districts, each party is exercising its legal rights. The strikers have the law with them, and the employers have the law with them also. So long as the strikers stand upon their right to have a higher price for their services, and go no further, they will occupy a strong position."

THE young colored liar whose propensity caused his excommunication from the church of the famous Rev. John Jasper, of Richmond, and who apparently became dumb immediately after he had asked the Almighty to paralyze his tongue if what he had said was not true, has recovered his speech through the agency of a galvanic battery applied by two physicians who were determined to ascertain whether or not he was shamming. He endured the electric current for several minutes, but a severer shock broke his resolution, and he yelled at the top of his voice," For God's sake, doctor, stop shooking dat handle." This exposure has not shaken the faith of the Rev. Mr. Jasper's parishioners, who now believe that there have been two miracles instead of one as firmly as they believe that "the sun do move."

THE ragpickers of St. Louis have organized a society for mutual assistance, and to prove to the world that "a ragpicker can be a gentleman."

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has set his seal of approval to the court martial's verdict in the case of the young colored officer, Lieutenant Flipper. The affair has been given wide publicity, and as is usually the case when the color line is crossed, two parties have divided on that foolish point. Every citizen of the country was interested in the outcome. When the details of the young man's unhappy situation were made known, those who are interested in the fate of the colored race, and sanguine of the success of the adventurous experiment of maintaining their civil rights, demanded impartial trial for the impugned soldier. There is no reason to doubt the honesty and impartiality of the court martial. The young man's strongest claim was irregularity; but that, if passed over, would tend to destroy the morals of the army. The sentence stands, therefore, and young Flipper, after a most creditable career at West Point, finds himself beginning the world anew under a cloud which would be hard for even the favored race to emerge from.

THE Independents ought to agree among themselves before starting a new lie. One of the latest has it that Senator Cameron has started Hopkins on the Gubernatorial track, another that he is forcing Trunkey's canvass, and again another that as "by his intercession Sam Randall had a district cut out in which he could be elected, Randall is to pay him by running as a candidate." And of course it must follow that if either one is nominated—the happy fellow is to [sacrifice himself upon Mr. Cameron's altar. A yarn like this is not fit even "to be told to the marines." If Mr. Cameron is all powerful in both parties, is there not just a little danger that the Independents are engaged in a forlorn hope?

THERE is no abatement of the excitement in Egypt, and the flight from that dark land continues. Hundreds of persons have already been slain and a fresh outbreak is feared at any moment. More than ten thousand persons have succeeded in getting away from Alexandria, and thousands more are waiting an opportunity to escape. All the leading nations have ordered vessels of war there to protect their subjects and thousands of Turkish soldiers are being hurried forward by order of the Sultan to aid in preserving order. Such a state of affairs has not existed there for a long time.

A GANG of of roughs had it all their own way on Thursday near Pittsburgh, and a couple of bruisers pummeled each other until one was completely used up. The disgraceful affair then ended in a row, during which pistols were freely drawn and one man was shot in the leg. Although it had been publicly announced that a fight was expected to take place, the authorities, it seems, failed to stop the affair, and the bullies had things their own way. Shame!

THE following is the constitutional amendment upon which the people of Iowa will be called on to vote on the 27th day of June: "No person shall manufacture for sale, sell, or keep for sale as a beverage, any intoxicating liquors whatever, including ale, wine and beer. The general assembly shall, by law, prescribe regulations for the enforcement of the provisions herein contained, and shall thereby provide suitable penalties for violation of the provisions thereof."

BLAINE spins another yarn.—N. Y. Sun. And the Sun flies into another rage because said "yarn" lets the bottom out of its carefully prepared charges against that honorable gentleman. The Sun may as well give its readers a rest on Blaine. The dirty job it has been engaged on for several months past, in common with other New York journals, to blacken the character of the ex-Secretary, hasn't panned out well.

GENERAL NOTES.

SPURIOUS cheese from America is attracting the attention of the British board of trade.

ARABI BAY threatens to proclaim a holy war if the khedive insists on seeking foreign aid.

THE number of books and magazines published in Germany during the year 1881 was 15,191.

THE minority report of the House judiciary committee declared the Northern Pacific railroad land grant forfeited.

JAMES HOUSTON, of Northampton county, is the champion bigamist, having five living wives, with divorces from none.

THOMAS SOULDERS, an inmate of the Berks county almshouse, fell into a boiler of hot water on Saturday and was scalded to death.

THE Marquis of Anglesey, who recently left his young American wife, is said to have lost £150,000 pounds at the racing meetings of the last fortnight.

THE President has signed the joint resolution expressing the sympathy of the government and people of the United States on the death of Garibaldi.

DANIEL W. HAWN, of Manheim, Lancaster county, while recovering from a spree recently, took an over dose of hydrate of chloral, and died from its effects.

JOHN JOHNSON, a colored youth of 17, who feloniously assaulted a white girl, at Rock Hill, South Carolina, on Sunday, was lynched on Monday morning.

FOREST fires are raging near Milleville, Wisconsin, and threatening to destroy the village of Hewittville and Hewitt's mills. A number of cattle have been burned.

CHARLES CASE was fatally stabbed by Reuben Davidson on Monday in a quarrel about a clothes-line, near New Brunswick, New Jersey. Davidson was arrested.

WARREN KYLE, while driving through a village near Cleveland, Ohio, on Friday, was killed by a stray bullet at which some bad marksmen were practicing.

AN open switch caused a passenger train to run into a freight train on a siding near Kingston, Ga., on Saturday, killing Andrew West, engineer, and George Bass, fireman.

THE wonderful Kentucky revivalist, Barnes, has begun work in Frankfort with the avowed intention of converting the governor, secretary of state and other sinful state officials.

NINETEEN firemen were injured by the falling of a burning building near Boston Saturday morning. Nine of them were severely hurt and two are in a dangerous condition.

THE Compe de Paris has nearly completed the third volume of his "History of the Civil War in America," which will probably be published before the close of the present year.

AN eccentric and wealthy Frenchman, M. de Molier, has built a private circus. He is an excellent horseman, and has enlisted a number of fashionable young men in Paris as performers in his troupe.

THE Memphis Avalanche expresses the opinion that if the Tennessee debt-payers would stop their grog for five years and kill off the dogs they could pay the state debt, principal and interest, and have some money left to buy sheep.

IN Monroe county, Mississippi, on Sunday, a 7-year-old white girl named Arknew was feloniously assaulted by George Beckett, colored. Beckett was arrested and committed to jail but at night a mob took possession of him and hanged him to a tree.

OSCAR WILDE is changing his costume frequently during his second Western tour. In Cincinnati he wore a swallow-tailed coat of black velvet, lined with red silk, knee-breeches and waistcoat of black satin, black silk stockings, and masses of lace in place of shirt bosom and cuffs.

AN extraordinary tricycle journey has been accomplished by the Vice-President of the Lyons Bicycle Club, accompanied by his wife, on a two-seated machine. The travellers went from Lyons, through Nice, Genoa, and Rome, to Naples, returning via Florence and Turin, the whole journey representing a distance of some 2,300 miles, being accomplished at an average of about fifty to sixty miles a day on the road.

JULIA HEINEMAN was a singer in a low St. Louis variety hall. Her brother went into the place, fired a pistol at her, and explained that though he loved her dearly, he would kill her rather than let her continue in such employment. He was a Southern gentleman, of good family, he said, and could not bear social disgrace. It turned out, however, that Julia had paid his board for a year, and that his indignation was not aroused until she refused to support him longer.

A NEW explosive has been invented by M. Petri, a Viennese engineer. The name given to it is dynamogen, and it is likely to compete seriously with gun-powder. The inventor states that it contains neither sulphuric acid, nitric acid, nor nitro-glycerine, and that it cannot injure in any way either gun or cartridge. The charge of dynamogen is in the form of a solid cylinder, which can be increased in quantity without being increased in size, by compression. The manufacture of dynamogen is simple and without danger. It preserves its qualities in the coldest or hottest weather, and can be made at 40 per cent. less cost than gunpowder.

IN London there is soon to take place a great auction of old fans of rare workmanship and value. Among them are Marie Antoinette's marriage fan, and others designed in commemoration of her betrothal to the Dauphin; the bridal fan of Maria Leckynska, wife of Louis XV., and so forth. The collection is divided under the heads, "English period of George III.," George II. period, and anterior; fans made in China for English marriages, and other souvenirs; early engraved fans, Charles II. period; Flemish, Chinese, Italian, Venetian, French modern, empire, consulate, and revolutionary periods, and periods of Louis XIII., XIV., XV., and XVI.

Poetry.

VOICES OF THE SEA.

Wakeful I lay at night and heard
The pulsings of the restless sea;
The morning surges
Sounded like dirges
From some far back eternity,
Whose spirits from the deep are stirred.

Awakened ith the morning light,
Again I listened to the sea;
But with the surges
We heard no dirges,
But only life's activity;
Morning dispelled the gloom of night.

At noon I sauntered forth to view
The throbbing of that living sea;
Still it was surging,
But only surging
All men to be both strong and free,
Strong in the soul with conscience true.

At closing day once more I st od,
Gazing across that mighty sea;
Far ships were sailing;
The light was failing;
Time lost in immortality,
Was the reflection of my mood.

It is the mind and not the place,
Our mood and not a varying voice,
That fills with sadness,
Or thrills with gladness,
A soul whose one great ruling choice
Reflects in all things its own face.

—And thou, full moon, that with great, swollen face
Will look upon the earth to-night where lovers do embrace;
Tell us, as thou thy course around the earth doth go
Hast thou not seen a spot where ne'er cometh the circus show?
Behind a cloud the moon withdrew in woe,
And a coarse voice responded, "Not for Jo."

Our Story Teller.

Miss Harcourt's Lover.

"It looks as if it were going to snow for weeks, Miss Elizabeth," said old Gregory, as he touched his hat and hobbled down the icy pathway as fast as rheumatism and old age would permit him.

Miss Elizabeth looked down into the sweet old English garden, with the tangled mass of shrubbery covered with snow, and a mist came over her eyes.

A week! The slim white fingers closed tightly over the yellow envelope clasped in her hand, and as she turned away from the door a tear plashed down upon it.

In just one week the mortgage would be foreclosed, the letter said, and unless the amount could be raised in the meanwhile, the dear old house where she was born must pass into the hands of strangers.

The investments that her nephew made for her all proved failures, and when, five years ago, he had come bustling up from London and told her that this mortgage would save her fortune, she signed her name to the paper, and for a while all seemed well.

How foolish she had been! Why had she not asked more about it? Ralph Morgan had paid the interest for her as it came due, until two years ago, when she received word from him, and he had decided to go to Australia.

That was all. Miss Elizabeth had seen very little of him. He was the only child of her sister, who was many years older. When the father died, the property was divided between the sisters. Margaret took her share in money, and went, with her husband and child to live in London, where she died soon after.

Elizabeth had never left the old homestead, and with proper management, there would never have been any need to do so; but now—she had made another mistake.

The old clock was ticking loudly in the great wide hall as she slowly went up the stairs to the pleasant room where she had spent her lifetime.

"I am always making mistakes," she moaned, drearily, as she threw herself on the little white bed. "Sixteen years ago to-day I made one, and now I have made another."

There were no tears now in the dark gray eyes, only a tired look that strangers would wonder at; for if ever a woman was envied in that village Elizabeth Harcourt was.

"She has everything one could wish for," the poor folks said; "but she is too good with it all."

How could they know of the business worries, and the pinching economy, and the aching heart that the sweet, calm face never showed?

Elizabeth Harcourt was a proud woman, and in after years gone by, had been a hasty one; and now, in the quiet of her room, her thoughts went back to long ago when, in her hot temper, she told Jack Rainsford she never wished to see his face again. How could he know that in the morning she would have given worlds to unsay the words?

It had started, like most quarrels, with such a little thing! But he had taken her at her word, and one week from the night she gave him back his ring he sailed for India, and she had never seen him since.

She did not think he would stay away, but, in the meanwhile, no one should ever know she cared at all; so she laughed and talked more blithely than ever, and grew prettier every day, until every one said she never had cared for him; and away off in hot Calcutta, Jack Rainsford heard it and his heart grew hard and bitter.

A year went by and he did not come back; then she promised to marry Philip Dinsmore. After that she was gayer than ever, until, when the wedding-day was fixed, and the villagers talking of the grand match, she broke it off with him. Nobody ever knew why, except Philip Dinsmore. If he had been less grand and noble than he was she might have married him; but looking into those pure eyes of his, she could not take a lie on her lips. So she told him with bitters tears how the face of her absent lover came between her and any one else.

Brave Philip Dinsmore! As he listened, whiter and whiter grew his face; but when she had finished, he stooped and kissed the sweet red lips for the last time. In all the world he knew he would never love another woman as he loved Beth Harcourt, and it was a grander love than she had before.

"I am going to India on business next month, Beth," he wrote to her afterward, "and if I can, I will find Jack Rainsford." So he sailed away—and the ship was lost, and Philip Dinsmore never reached Jack Rainsford.

After that Elizabeth Harcourt was never the same; and as the years rolled on, she was left alone with faithful servants in the old stone house. Somebody said that Mr. Rainsford married the daughter of a rich merchant, but he never came back. Something had gone from her life with each year, and now, at forty, the very last thing had come, and the old home was to go.

No wonder, on that winter morning Elizabeth Harcourt was in despair! She had so much to bear! From that night that Jack Rainsford left her in anger she had never really been happy again. That hot temper her mother had warned her against—ah! it had been cooled since then. No one who saw her bending quietly over the sick bed in the poorest cottage, would guess that calm face there had ever seen anything but peace.

Now she lay with wide open eyes, thinking of the past, and in her ears were ringing old Nurse Blackitt's words of her: "She will take an awful site of soberin'."

Just then there came a knock at the door, and Elspeth's voice, saying:

"Miss Elizabeth, there is a strange gentleman down stairs who wishes to see you for a few minutes. He looks as if he was from London."

The lawyer from London! Miss Harcourt's heart gave a quick throb as she arose and mechanically glanced at the little narrow glass between the windows. There was a red spot burning on each cheek, and the brown hair had lost its smooth, satin appearance; but she did not notice that to day, but passed quickly down to the cool, dark room below.

The stranger rose and bowed as she entered, a tall man with gray hair and a swarthy skin.

"Your letter came this morning," began Miss Elizabeth, nervously. "I am afraid the house will have to go for the mortgage—"

"My letter?" said the stranger. "I think there must be some mistake."

"I beg your pardon," Miss Harcourt said, "but are you not from London?"

The stranger took a step forward.

"Beth," he said, "have I changed so completely that you do not know me?"

"Jack!" she gasped. "You cannot be Jack Rainsford!"

Such a different meeting from that which she had planned in the years gone by! Instead of passionate kisses she quietly shook hands with her old lover, and sat down on the chair opposite to him.

A chill, disappointed look came over the worn, tired face of the man, and he arose and walked over to the window as he said bitterly,—

"You have hardly changed at all, but sixteen years in India are not likely to keep a man fresh and young—especially when they are particularly happy ones."

Something in the tones made Elizabeth Harcourt's heart thrill as in the old days; but she remembered that wife in India. The feverish cheeks grew a deeper crimson but she said quietly:

"Are you going to stay for any length of time in England, Mr. Rainsford? Is your wife with you?"

With a startled look he turned and faced her.

"You know I never married, Beth Harcourt," he said bitterly. "I never loved anyone but you, and—you have forgotten me."

With a low cry she sprang toward him, and the next moment was sobbing in his arms.

"Jack, my darling," she said, "I have loved you always, and have not forgotten you for one moment of the weary years!"

"If I had only known it before!" he answered sadly. "Some one told me you married the year after I left, and I thought it was true until one day, on board a vessel, I met a lad that came from here. I asked him about the old place, and he told me Miss Elizabeth Harcourt had nursed him through a fever when every one else was afraid to come near him."

Rainsford stopped and slipped an odd hoop of shining stones on Miss Harcourt's finger.

"Do you know," he said, "a wild hope filled me, and I said to myself, 'If not I will drop it in the middle of the ocean, and never look at England again'"

Elizabeth looked down at the sparkling diamonds, and said with a long-drawn sigh:

"Oh, Jack, it was only this morning that I was in despair."

"Suppose you let me see that letter from London?" he said. "I wanted to make some English investments."

That night Miss Harcourt knelt by the little white bed with a happy sob, like a tired child that had found rest at last.

Jack did make an investment, but it was not in London. The mortgage was relieved, and Jack and Beth now enjoy the old stone mansion.

A cooking club—The rolling pin.

Nye and Wilde.

We went down on the overland train Thursday to see the great æsthete. We picked him out without any trouble and tackled him for a quiet little talk all by ourselves. Mr. Wilde is very tall, with a face like a broad axe. We told him that our name was Nye, the great Wyoming æsthete. He smiled like a rolling mill and shook hands.

He wore a soft hat and a kind of steel-colored velvet sack coat. He also wore his hands in his pockets clear up to the elbow joint. He wears a kind of Byron collar and a necktie the color of a diseased liver. His pants were of a gray material, and held in place with pink gum suspenders. They were shown as he stooped over, his coat being cut just below the shoulder blades. His shoulder blades are high and intellectual. He wears his hair long, with hay and little mementoes from the sleeping-car in it. His face is thin, and when buried in a peace of pie must be a ghastly sight.

Mr. Wilde's teeth are evidently his own. Nobody could make teeth like them and escape the vigilance committee. They are broad and prominent, with a tendency to go out and look for air. He does not seem strong, but his breath proves this impression to be erroneous. Mr. Wilde wore a silk handkerchief the color of the illustrations found in public documents describing the cattle plague.

He spoke of various topics with a seductive drawl, wriggling his limber, angle-worm legs as he spoke, and posing like a giraffe with the colic, for the benefit of the ladies who stood near. He wipes his nose in a lanquid yet soulful way that makes you wish he would do so again. We asked him when he would return to England, and he tossed his mane in the air and said:

"Ah! I don't know whether I shall survive or not."

"You get a good deal of free advertising I see," said the Boomerang man, gnawing a little fragment from an irregular piece of navy and thoughtlessly stepping on the patent leather shoe of the great æsthete.

"Oh, yes," said Os, as he straightened up and extended his neck up through his collar till you could see the scalloped edge of his chemise. "Yes sir; most too much of it. Still it pays moderately well. He he, he! However, it is absolutely stupid of them to make such beastly and peculiar little jokes upon me, you know."

We had a good deal more confidential talk with him before the train left, which we may give to the public after awhile, but at present space forbids.

Mr. Wilde's complexion is very pallid, with here and there a little pimple that relieves the monotony some. He wears no beard or mustache at all, but makes up for that with a large growth of hair on his head, which falls in graceful festoons over his shoulders like a horse's tail over an olive-green dashboard. He is just as full of soul as he can be, and walks and breathes like a two-year-old steer in a cabbage grove. He smiles every little while like a collicky baby in its sleep, and sighs and places himself in statuesque position, as though something had given away in his apparel and he was trying to keep his ethereal pantaloons on till people looked the other way.

Dean Stanley's Calligraphy.

Dean Stanley's writing at times was perfectly undecipherable. As an instance of this, a friend of the Dean has recently received by post, from New York, a packet of manuscript with a very curious request. The manuscript contains an article written by Dean Stanley, shortly before his death, for one of the great American magazines. As soon as the cable conveyed the news of the Dean's demise, the proprietors of the magazine congratulated themselves on their good luck, put the manuscript in the printers' hands, proposing to make the article the prominent feature of the forthcoming number. But their purpose was met by an extraordinary difficulty. The printers could not read the Dean's handwritting. They struggled at it from morn to even, having the assistance of skilled readers, and of the full intelligence of the editorial department. The combined force at length wrested the meaning of about ten of every dozen words; but it was admitted that without the other two the article would be fatally incomplete. The only thing to be done was to forward the M. S. to a friend of the late Dean for translation.

"I c-a-n-n-o-t sing the old songs!" she warbled, touching the keys of the shivering, sobbing piano and drawing out wails of anguish. "Then why do you try to?" asked her father, in an unsympathetic voice. "I cannot s-ing the old songs," she went on, looking up into the face of her lover, who was bending over her with agony depicted in his countenance, for he had to turn the leaves and didn't know a musical bar from a barrel stave. Then she began on the next verse. "I cannot sing the o-l-d songs!" And as her voice went up into the fourth story and Mansard roof her dearly loved young brother said, "Well, sis, I wouldn't sing the old things if I could, and you know you can't." Then she smiled at him so that he went up stairs and locked himself in.

Barnum's monkeys look sad, very sad. They have heard of the death of Darwin, and the hope of finding the "missing link" is forever dissipated.

Darwin.

Acute as were his reasoning powers, vast as was his knowledge, marvellous as was his tenacious industry, under physical difficulties which would have converted nine men out of ten into aimless invalids; it was not these qualities, great as they were, which impressed those who were admitted to his intimacy with involuntary veneration, but a certain intense and almost passionate honesty by which all his thoughts and actions were irradiated, as by a central fire. It was this rarest and greatest of endowments which kept his vivid imagination and great speculative powers within due bounds, which compelled him to undertake the prodigious labors of original investigation and of reading, upon which his published works are based; which made him accept critcisms and suggestions from anybody and everybody, not only without impatience, but with expressions of gratitude sometimes almost comically in excess of their value; which led him to allow neither himself nor others to be deceived by phrases, and to spare neither time nor pains in order to obtain clear and distinct ideas upon every topic with which he occupied himself. One could not converse with Darwin without being reminded of Socrates. There was the same desire to find some one wiser than himself; the same belief in the sovereignty of reason; the same ready humor; the same sympathetic humor in all the ways and works of men. But instead of turning away from the problems of nature as hopelessly insoluble, our modern philosopher devoted his whole life to attacking them in the spirit of Heraclitus and of Democritus, with results which are as the substance of which their speculations were anticipatory shadows. The due appreciation or even enumeration of these results is neither practicable nor desirable at this moment. There is a time for all things—a time for glorying in our ever extending conquest over the realm of nature, and a time for mourning over the heroes who have led us to victory. None have fought better, and none have been more fortunate than Charles Darwin. He found a great truth, trodden under foot, reviled by bigots, and ridiculed by all the world; he lived long enough to see it, chiefly by his own efforts, irrefragably established in science, inseparably incorporated with the common thoughts of men, and only hated and feared by those who would revile, but dare not. What shall a man desire more than this; Once more the image of Socrates rises unbidden, and the noble peroration of the 'Apology' rings in our ears as if it were Charles Darwin's farewell: "The hour of departure has arrived, and we go our way—I to die and you to live. Which is the better, God only knows."

Why They Parted.

The Boston Herald has the following: One of the most amusing freaks in love affairs has just taken place in Dedham, and those who have been let into the secret are having lots of fun over it. The couple are young, and both belong to the first families. They had a row some months since and parted, but afterwards made up, and everything went on serenely until he presented her with a set of ear-drops, which he is said to have represented as being of the real water. The mother of the young lady, however, had suspicions that the jewels were not of the first water, and accordingly had them them tested, and it was found that the beautiful diamonds were but brilliants of a very fine quality. Then there was a grand row, and, as a result, the father of the young lady took all the presents which his daughter had received, and they were numerous, and boxed them up. He then proceeded to the residence of the young man, deposited the box upon the piazza, rang the bell, and when the ring was answered—it happened to be the young man himself who went to the door—the indignant father simply pointed to the box. The young man was very cool, and asked the wrathy old gentleman into the house, an invitation which, however, was not accepted, and the irate father withdrew. Not to be outdone in courtesy, the father of the young man also decided to return all the presents which his son had received. The result was a very big box, for the girl had been most generous, and he, too, started for the residence of the young lady, accompanied by a servant. Arriving at their destination, a side lane was driven into and the servant deposited the box, rang the bell and silently stole away. Thus have "two souls with but a single thought" been ruthlessly parted. As both families are members of one common church the grand tableau is looked upon with a good deal of interest.

Matching: "What colored frame will you have, ma'am?" inquired a shopman of a lady who had called to have her prospective husband's picture framed. "Well, you ought to know more about it than I," was the lady's reply. "I want a frame that will match the picture." "Oh, of course, ma'am," said the dealer, selecting one from the largest assortment. "How would a green one do?" That man has never discovered to this day why that woman got out so quickly, leaving the door on a wide jar.

In New York on Monday evening twenty-five young men were given instructions in the Trade Schools on Practical and Scientific Plumbing. The practical part, it is presumed, consisted in tearing up fifty dollars' worth of flooring to repair a forty-cent leak which was located in another place, while the scientific portion comprised the art of making out the bill.

A mule is tame enough in front, but awfully wild behind.

"When I shake hands wid a stranger," said Brother Gardner, as silence fell upon the members, "I doan' keer two cents wheder his greatgran'fader was a Cabinet officer or a cobbler; wheder his own gran'fader sold silk or kaliker; wheder his fader was a cooper or statesman. Photography in Rural Virginia—Its Exciting Perils.

An amateur photographer levelled his instrnment at a picturesque shanty in the mountains of Giles. Doubtless it would have made one of the most striking views in his collection, but—

The door of the shanty was flung wide open and a fierce-looking, dirty little man stepped out with on old horse-pistol in his hand, followed by a tall, wiry woman grasping a dangerous-looking axe, while a multitude of children, more or less naked, brought up the rear.

"Take that 'ere thing away! take it away!" the man howled. "Darn yer hide, what d'yer mean, anyhow—makin' my house a target for yer new-fangled shootin' things? Git out."

A brief and excited colloquy ensued—the man flourishing his ancient pistol and the woman making threatening gestures with the axe. The artist tried in vain to explain himself and his instrument, but in vain, he had to git.

Not long since a lady called on Mose Schaumburg to find out if a colored woman, who had formerly been a servant at his house, was honest, she having given him as a reference. "She vas honest, too honest to suit me, put she vas not reliable." "How in the world can that be?" "Vell, von day I leaves a five tollar pill on the floor and I tells Matildy to sweep dot room out. I shoost vant to see if she keep dot pill." "Well did she keep the pill?" "No, she brings me dot pill back." "That looks very much as if she were reliable." "No, she vas not reliable, for dot pill vas counterfeit. I vas in hope she takes dot pill, and den I would never pay her dot twenty tollars I owed her; put she's fooled me py bringing dot pad pill pack; so I cannot say she vas reliable, put maybe she vas honest."

Overdid it: "Why, of course you want a telephone put in your house," said the canvasser to the business man: "it will be so handy when your wife wants to talk to you." "There," exclaimed the business man, picking up a stool, "that will do. I listened to you when you urged the point that I could order provisions from the butcher, and I looked with favor on your representations that would afford unequalled facilities for ordering in the beer, but when you tell me that the only rest I get during the day is going to be ruthlessly busted into through the medium of a galvanized tintype, then it is time you was breathing your atmosphere into other ears. You may make yourself less adjacent, young man." He made.—Detroit Free Press.

Logical Conclusions.

"He who would thrive must rise at five," says the old proverb, though there is more rhyme than reason in it; for if

He who would thrive must rise at five,
it must naturally follow that
He that would thrive more,
Must rise at four;
and it would insure a consequence that
He who'd still more thriving be,
Must leave his bed at turn of three;
And who this latter would out-do,
Will rouse him at the stroke of two;
and by way of climax to it all, it should be held good that
He who'd never be out-done,
Must ever rise as soon as one;
but the best illustration would be that
He who'd flourish best of all,
Must never go to bed at all.

A Louisville editor says Chicago has more saloons than lamp posts. But on this question a Louisville editor's word is very unreliable. When he visits Chicago the first thing he does is to take a census of the saloons, and after testing the quality of three thousand bars, of course he can't count all the lamp-posts. About one is as many as he can get round without the assistance of a policeman.

An Ohio man, after reading of the allowances made to the doctors who attended President Garfield, declared that "Doctor Ignorance" got too great an allowance. "Why," said a friend, "Doctor Ignorance had nothing to do with the case!" "Yes, he had," answered the Ohio man, "don't you know that 'Ignorance is bliss?"

A cynical old bachelor says it is called courtship because it is so often followed by shipwreck.

Three men and a dog were in a in a boat on the St. Lawrence. The boat capsized, and the dog, instead of saving the men, sagaciously swam ashore and let them drown. This is one of the little dog stories that will not be related in that touching publication, "Our Dumb Animals."

The Gothic style of handwriting, now so popular among young ladies, may have its advantages. It is said that a young man who recently received a specimen of it could not tell, for the life of him, whether it was "Yes, with pleasure," "No, thank you," or a sketch of a picket fence.

The Weekly Avunculator thought it mighty mean for the Daily Scissorer to copy the former's news item without credit, and said so in type. The editor of Scissorer therefore apologized. He said he had printed the item out of pure kindness. There was news in it, and he supposed the editor of the Avunculator would be glad to have the news reach the people.

Henry Ward Beecher told Burdett, the other day, that old as he is, he cannot overcome his stage fright for a few moments when he goes on the platform. We don't blame Hank for feeling a little bit shy, says Bill Nye. If we had established the reputation he has, we would go on the stage disguised as a rain water barrel or a wooden Indian.

——One of the most eloquent and popular clergymen of Austin, Texas, being about to ascend the steps leading to his church a few Sundays ago, was asked by a partially blind old lady who did not recognize him, to help her up the steps. With his usual urbanity he complied with her request. Just as they reached the top steps she asked him who was going to preach.

"Parson Smith," he replied, that being his own name.

"O Lord?" exclaimed the old lady, "Help me down again. I'd rather listen to a man sawing wood. Please help me down again. I don't care to go in."

At first the clergyman was inclined to refuse, but on reflection, he gently assisted her down the steps again, remarking as they reached the bottom: "You are quite right, madam, about not going into the church. I wouldn't go in either if I was not paid for it."

——Mr. Robert J. Burdette, who has been going up and down this helpless country lecturing for six years past, has been giving his opinion of the public halls. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY & LIVER CURE

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations are without. Hence, to cure the disease the Cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just principles. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and connections said to be just as good.

If you are broken down, have not energy, or feel as if life was hardly worth living, you can be relieved and restored to robust health and strength by taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, which is a true tonic—a medicine universally recommended for all wasting diseases.

501 N. Fremont St., Baltimore
During the war I was injured in the stomach by a piece of a shell, and have suffered from it ever since. About four years ago it brought on paralysis, which kept me in bed six months, and the best doctors in the city said I could not live. I suffered fearfully from indigestion, and for over two years could not eat solid food and for a large portion of the time was unable to retain even liquid nourishment. I tried Brown's Iron Bitters and now after taking two bottles I am able to get up and go around and am rapidly improving.

Among The Strikers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio June 15.—The strikers have men designated from their own number to act as police and assist in preserving order. They asked to be appointed by the city as special patrolmen, but the request was denied. Two of these quasi officers arrested Thomas Blythe, a non-union workman, last Friday, on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon. When on trial in police court Blythe swore that he carried a revolver to protect himself from assaults by strikers. He was acquitted and the men who arrested him were arrested at the suggestion of the court charged with assault and battery, it being in evidence that they seized Blythe without a warrent of provocation and found a revolver in his possession. Their cases were set for trial for the 21st instant. This morning, when on his way to work, Blythe was attacked by a gang of men, presumed to be strikers, and was so badly beaten that he may die.

A Compromise.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 16.—Is is currently rumored here to-day that there will soon be a compromise between the companies and the miners in this region and that the basis of compromise will be fifty cents per ton and ten hours for a day's work. It is generally believed that measures for a compromise have been active for a week past and that the great obstacle is the fact that the companies will not agree to take back the old men as a body, but insist in selecting such as they see fit. Notwithstanding this rumor the Maryland and New Central companies are actively preparing to put in new labor and by Monday it is said buildings for imported miners will be commenced.

A Mysterious Affair.

CANTON, Ohio, June 15.—George McMullen, a coal operator, returned home with his wife last night. Early this morning the neighbors were awakened by the report of pistol shots in his house. McMullin's wife was found dead and he was wounded in the breast. He said a woman had fired at them and escaped. The neighbors think he murdered his wife and then attempted to commit suicide.

College Commencement.

CHESTER, Pa., June 15.—The annual commencement of the Pennsylvania Military academy was held in a large tent on the campus on account of the recent destruction of the academy by fire. Degrees were conferred upon nine graduates. The past year has been the most successful in the history of the institution. The new building will be ready for the September term.

The Alexandria Riots.

LONDON, June 15.—A dispatch from Alexandria says: "The number of Europeans killed on Sunday is now estimated at two hundred and fifty. Many were thrown into the sea and are being daily washed ashore. Twelve bodies yesterday, and five to-day were thus recovered. All the bodies bear marks of bludgeon or bayonet."

New Wheat.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 15.—The first regular shipment of new wheat arrived here to-day from southeast Missouri and graded No. 2. Samples of flour from new Texas and Tennessee wheat were exhibited on Change to-day.

Arrested.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 16.—B. F. Henderson, tax collector of East Donegal township, this county, was arrested to-day on a charge of embezzlement and committed to prison. The amount of defalcation is about $3,000.

Wild Western Winds.

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—The severest storm that has visited this region for a long time passed over the city between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday. The wind attained a velocity of sixty-six miles an hour and did very great damage, but so far as known no one was fatally injured. Trees and fences were prostrated in all sections of the city, shutters, signs and chimneys blown down and general havoc among small things prevailed.

The steamer Blue Lodge, valued at $10,000, was sunk at the Pittsburg dyke, on the Illinois shore. She is a total loss and is not insured. The steamboat Champion sunk at East St. Louis and is also a total loss. She was valued at $10,000 and fully insured. Captain Dan Silver's boats Bright Light and Annie P. Silver, sustained damages respectively to the extent of $1,000 and $1,500. The steamboat Charles P. Chauteau lost her boom and was damaged to the extent of $200. The steamboat Grand Pacific, of the St. Paul packet line, suffered to the extent of $300. The steamboat City of Helena lost both her chimneys. The total loss on the river by the storm is over $25,000.

KANSAS CITY, June 18.—This city was visited Friday night by a terrific tornado, which unroofed and overturned houses, blew down trees and fences and worked general havoc. Fowler Brothers' cooper shop and the Western paint shops were blown down, and Thomas Madden, who was in the latter, was killed. The Howell hotel, at Rosedale, a suburban town, was also blown down, killing William Reese. Fred. Powell had a leg broken. At Wyandotte, across the Kansas river, Durring's opera house was unroofed. The loss in Kansas City is estimated at $200,000, LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 18.—A terrific storm passed over this city Friday night, doing much damage. Houses were unroofed, trees and fences blown down and a great deal of other property ruined. During the storm five women were killed in a house.

LATER.—During the terrible wind storm which prevailed yesterday morning St. Mary's academy, near here, suffered greatly. The main tower was blown down, smashing in the roof of the dormitory and killing Ida Golden, Annie McDonald and Mabel McLanathan, of this city, and Mary Austin, of Carrollton, Mo., aged from 11 to 15 years. Twenty other children escaped injury. The Kansas Central elevator was blown down, causing a loss of $50,000. The loss in the city and county is about $500,000.

DES MOINES, Iowa., June 18.—A tornado swept through Central Iowa late last night from northwest to southeast, for twenty miles north of Des Moines. The town of Grinnell was struck by it and half of the town was left in ruins. The lateness of the hour at which anything like authentic statement could be had last night from the tornado at Grinnell and the subsequent prostration of the wires prevented any report being sent out. The first startling reports of the loss of life were soon confirmed, and later and authentic reports swelled the list of dead at Grinnell to forty with a number severely hurt and the Cornell college buildings ruined. Eight at least were also killed at Malcolm station and several living in the farming district.

The Indian School.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 18.—Secretary and Mrs. Teller arrived here yesterday for a two-days' vist at the Indian school. They were present at the marriage of Elahdleuh Doanmoe, formerly a student but now an assistant in the school, to Laura Foneadlema, both Kiawas. To-morrow about forty Sioux students, who have completed a three-years' course at the school, will return to their homes in Dakota. Secretary Teller addressed the students and pointed out to them the great advantage of education. He advised those who are about to leave to return again to school. That their education could not be completed in three years and they would profit largely by further studies. He promised that while he was secretary he would do all he could to help the Indian children to obtain an education.

Dies of His Injuries.

BALTIMORE, June 16.—Private telegrams received here state that R. T. Golsborough, Jr., of this city, died to-day at Clarksburgh, W. Va, from injuries received on the narrow gauge railroad between Clarksburg, and Weston, Va. A traveling salesman named Shorb, also of Baltimore, was seriously injured and several others badly hurt. No particulars of the railroad accident have been received here.

Fatal Friday.

CAIRO, Ill., June 16.—James Vaughn, who murdered William Walls, city marshall of Tamarna, was hanged to-day. His request that a brother of the murdered man, whom he saw in the yard, be excluded was granted.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 16.—Milton Tarberry was hanged here this afternoon for the murder of Charles Campbell.

Fierce Storm.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 18.—A fierce storm at Clarksville yesterday morning unroofed several houses and destroyed trees and fences. Two men, William Bird and Edward Sinclair, while working in the Red river bottom, near the town, were killed by lightning.

Pittsburgh's Parade.

PISTTBURGH, June 17.—The labor parade took place to-day. All through the forenoon trains from outside points brought in members of labor associations who desired to participate in the demonstration. At noon there had been received at the Union depot more than 7,000 persons above the ordinary traffic. An increase of 4,000 over the customary local traffic was the estimate at the Baltimore and Ohio depot. About 2,000 additional came to the Allegheny Valley depot, and 1,500 more were received at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie depot, on the south side. Wheeling, West Virginia, sent a delegation of 500; 500 came from Steubensville, 300 from Mansfield, and 1,700 from Midway. The Wheeling contribution to the parade, with the band, occupied seven cars, and a large number of processionists and spectators arrived by water. Along the streets chosen as the route of parade many houses were profusely decorated with flags and mottoes, and with the immense crowd on the streets the two cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny presented quite a holiday aspect.

At a fair estimate there were twenty thousand men in line. The most remarkable feature of the day was the perfect order which prevailed. There was not a drunken man in the procession. Women and children, without protectors, freely mingled with the throng without being subjected to insult or injury. Business was very generally suspended during the afternoon to give all an opportunity to participate in or witness the proceedings.

Unruly Egypt.

LONDON, June 16.—The correspondent of the Times at Alexandria says: The real and only serious danger is from the native troops, who are thoroughly in sympathy with the rabble and will tire of guarding the Europeans and take part against them. The correspondent urges immediate action. He says that directly a superior force is ready to land, the troops would have to choose between fighting and submitting. In the first case they would have to deal with invaders, and the foreigners could, in the meanwhile, hold their own against the rabble.

It is understood the Channel squadron will embark a large number of troops at Malta and proceed to Egypt.

PARIS, June 16.—It is semi-officially stated that all the powers have agreed to request the immediate acceptance of the conference on the Egyptian question by Turkey. Failing her assent the conference will meet elsewhere than at Constantinople, without Turkey's participation.

GIBRALTAR, June 16.—Rear-Admiral Nicholson, with the United States steamers Lancaster and Quinneberg, have arrived here, and will proceed to Alexandria immediately.

Davitt Arrives.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The steamer Germania, having on board the Irish agitator, Michael Davitt, and his secretary, William Redmond, arrived unexpectedly at quarantine about midnight last night and early this morning Mr. Davitt was driven hurriedly from the dock to the Everet House. Owing to proper notice not having been given of the arrival of the vessel the proposed reception was abandoned. At the hotel to-day Mr. Davitt said he contemplated a twelve days' visit, and would lecture through the states, beginning at Boston to-morrow night. He denied the rumor of a rupture between himself and Parnell and said they were in perfect accord. He condemned the cowardly assassination of the friendly Englismen in Phœnix park; spoke of the growing horror of the people at the deed, and said there was a general impression that it was the work of landlords to incite the English people against Mr. Parnell's conversion of Gladstone.

Notified to Vacate.

COHOES, N. Y., June 16.—One hundred and fifty women operatives, inmates of the Harmony mills boarding house, have been notified to seek other quarters. At the expiration of the time secured by rents paid in advance notices will be served for ejectment on those occupying the company's tenements. The operatives' appeals for aid continue to meet with a generous response. Provisions are distributed on Mondays and Fridays, and money is distributed at all times where needed. Quiet prevails.

Sign the Scale.

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—The Canal Dover iron company have signed the scale, but there is no report as to whether they are in operation to-day. Word has just been received at the amalgamated association headquarters that the Ohio Falls iron company of New Albany, Indiana, have signed and also agreed to pay ten per cent. more than Pittsburgh for finishing mills.

No Trouble at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 19.—There it no trouble at the Cleveland rolling mills. When they shut down for the night the workmen were started home as usual under the protection of about one hundred and fifty regular police. But few persons were in the adjacent streets, as these processions have ceased to be a novelty.

Boyle Nominated.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—The Democratic conferees of the Twenty first district met here to-night and nominated Charles E. Boyle for congress.

The Tornado at Grinnell.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 19.—Up to 11 o'clock last night forty-one deaths had occurred at Grinnell and twenty-three at outside points, seventeen of the latter at Malcolm. No deaths are reported to-day but the doctors say that six or seven more of the wounded at Grinnell will die. Some physicians put the final death roll at Grinnell alone at more than fifty, while others fear it will yet reach as high as seventy-five. Of the wounded in that city there are now over one hundred and twenty known cases, about eighty of them being of a rather serious nature. In the country there are also several serious cases of injured. The best posted persons at Grinnell yesterday estimated that the death roll of the calamity would very probably reach one hundred. It is now sixty-four as we have it. There were six deaths yesterday and last night.

One hundred and forty-three is estimated as the number of dwelling houses destroyed by the tornado in Grinnell. It is estimated that this entails a loss of half a million dollars, which is nearly a total loss, as hardly any of them are insured against tornadoes or anything else but fire. J. B. Grinnell states that fifty of the people in losing their houses lose all they have in the world. Outside of Grinnell, at Malcolm and in the country there is also immense loss. Probably the aggregate of all will not be less than three-quarters of a million. Some business men of Grinnell think that the actual loss will be larger.

De Long's Party.

NEW YORK, June 19.—A dispatch to the Herald dated Lena Delta, April 12, 1882, says: Melville found bodies of De Long's party on March 23d in two places 500 and 1000 yards from the wreck of their scow. After finding the boat search was continued and the party found a rifle barrel hanging upon sticks. The natives were set to digging and they found two bodies under 8 feet of snow. The remainder were soon found all covered with more or less snow. None of the dead had boots. Their feet were covered with rags tied on. In the pockets of all were pieces of burnt skin and of the clothing which they had been eating. The hands of all were more or less burned and it looked as if when dying they had crawled into the fire. The bodies were all interred in a mausoleum constructed of wood from the scow.

A Mother's Awful Crime.

CHICAGO, June 19.—A Genesee, Illinois, special says: Eight miles south of this city Saturday, after preparing dinner for her husband and hired man, and while they were eating, Mrs. Lindquest took her son, aged 5 years, to a cornerib near the house, cut his throat and then killed herself. No cause is known, but the woman is believed to have been insane.

Trunkey for Governor.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 19.—The democratic city convention this evening elected Jacob S. Haldeman representative delegate to the state convention, with instructions to support Judge Trunkey for governor and George H. Irwin for lieutenant governor. William R. Gorgas was nominated for the legislature.

The Usual Story.

WINCHESTER, Tenn., June 19—Henry Huddiston, colored, was lynched last night for assaulting Mrs. Vaugh, a white lady of this place on Saturday night.

Drowned.

CHESTER, Pa., June 19.—Thomas Lykens was drowned in Chester creek last night.

Telegraphic Briefs.

MT. STERLING, Ky., June 15.—Jim Mitchell, colored, who brutally assaulted the wife of a respectable farmer yesterday, was taken from the jail last night and hung.

DUBLIN, June 16.—The man arrested in King's Court on suspicion of being one of the murderers of Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke has been released.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 16.—A fire this morning destroyed the painting, upholstering and finishing shop of the Osgood Bradley car works, together with four cars nearly completed. Loss, $33,000.

CLEVELAND, June 16.—Quiet reigns at the Cleveland rolling mills. The First Cleveland troop, an independent mounted military company, have tendered their services to the police commissioners. The board by a vote of three to two accepted the offer and the troopers are to be sworn in as special policemen.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—At a cabinet meeting to-day the list of tariff commissioners was completed by the selection of William H. McMahon, of New York, and Alexander R. Boteler, of West Virginia. The commission was reorganized by the selection of John L. Hayes, of Massachusetts, as chairman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16—The president has approved the sentence in the case of Second Lieutenant Henry O. Flipper, Tenth cavalry, tried by court martial on charges of embezzlement and conduct unbecoming an officer, and sentenced to dismissal from the service. An order to that effect will be issued by the secretary of war in a dav or two.

A very modest young lady who was a passenger on board a packet ship, it is said, sprang out of her berth and jumped overboard on hearing the captain, during a storm, order the mate to haul down the sheets.

State Notes.

—Ann Pool, a Shamokin colored woman, recently gave birth to triplets. Two years ago she had twins.

—A noted burglar, recently placed in the Middleburg Snyder county jail, said he wouldn't stay, and he didn't.

—Somebody soaped the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks at Hazleton and detained a large picnic excursion train.

—Upwards of 1,500 Italians are now at work on the Pine Creek railway. It is estimated that they consume 7,500 loaves of bread a day.

—Prominent physicians say that the health of the city of Philadelphia is very bad, and attribute it to the foul condition of the water of the Schuylkill.

—It is generally conceded that General Manager Frank Thomson will succeed Mr. A. J. Cassatt as first vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad company.

—Walter H. Baker, aged 4 years, of East Bethlehem, Washington county, got the rubber top of a lead pencil wedged in his throat on Friday and choked to death.

—Edward Sanders, charged with killing Frank Strayhorn, was acquitted at Uniontown on Friday last. Sanders is only 17 years old, and killed Strayhorn in a fight.

—Abraham Sellers, one of the oldest conductors in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company, was run over at Columbia on Tuesday of last week and instantly killed.

—A lady named Mary Magui-ah
Had trouble in lighting the fi-ah;
The wood being green
She used kerosene—

She has gone where the fuel is dry-ah,

—Under the order of the Attorney General for the dissolution of graveyard insurance companies 170 of them have been dissolved. Of this number 14 will contest the right of the State's officer to close them up.

—The Selinsgrove Times says Judge Rockefeller sentenced Wm. Hannon to one year in the county jail and Jos. McGuire to two years in the penitentiary for stealing three fish from a grocer's stand in Milton—two pike and a shad.

—On Wednesday of last week the last small pox case was discharged from South Bethlehem. During the epidemic of the past three months there were some 350 cases, 119 of whom died. The town is now free of the disease.

—Among the political rumors now circulated is one that Secretary Folger will soon resign and that he is to be succeeded by Senator Don Cameron, who in his turn is to have for his successor in the Senate his father Ex-Senator Cameron.

—A negro boy at Richmond, this State, lied to his mother and "hoped God would paralyze his tongue if he was not telling the truth." He was attacked with fits, is now unable to speak, and a negro superstitious preacher of that place claims that the lad was "struck dumb for lying."

—A Reading fisherman has invented an alarm to denote a bite. Fastened to the rod is a ball with spring attachment, which is connected to the main line by a piece of rubber. When a bass nibbles at the bait the rubber is stretched, loosening the spring, and fires off a paper cap, which gives warning to the angler.

—Chairman Bogert has completed arrangements with the Pennsylvania, the Reading and the Lehigh Valley Railroads for half-fare tickets for delegates to the Democratic State Convention. Those entitled to the commutation in fares can upon application to Mr. Bogart receive orders to the local agents, which will secure them.

—An action has been instituted against State Senator Roberts, of Titusville, charging him with perjury in taking his oath as Senator. The information is laid by Patrick Boyle, of Richburg, N. Y., who claims that the Senator obtained his nomination by improper means, and consequently could not legally have taken the oath.

PHŒNIXVILLE, June 11.—Saturday afternoon Peter McNeal, employed in the Phœnix company's truck gang, of which Bruno Bishop is boss, in a fit of passion, struck Bishop twice over the head with a truck-brake, crushing in his skull. The wounded man was taken to the Pennsylvania hospital in a dying condition. After committing the crime McNeal escaped and has not been captured.

CARBONDALE, June 11.—A young man named Lowrey, while seated with some friends at a country inn near here, on Friday was approached by a man named Stebbins, who challenged any man to knock him down at one blow. Lowrey struck him a powerful blow in the chest, and Stebbins fell dead from a burst blood vessel. Lowrey, who intended going to Canada, proceeded on his journey and has not yet been arrested.

—The following remarkable case is reported by the Clarion Democrat: A little child of S. Wensel, of Piney township, aged nineteen months, while playing with some corn, swallowed one of the grains, which stuck in the windpipe. Physicians were called in, but could do nothing to relieve the child, and suggested an operation be performed, to which the mother would not consent. On the fifty-fifth day, however, the child choked when the grain came out whole and already sprouted.

—We take this from the North Cambria News: "Mrs. Miller, mother of Mr. Joseph Miller, a farmer of Barr township, was killed by a ram on Friday of last week. She had come across from Germany about two months ago and took up her residence with her son on his farm in the above township, about two miles from Nicktown, her husband having died some time ago and left her a widow. On the morning mentioned the old lady went to the barnyard, where a large ram attacked and butted her so severely that she died from the injuries received the same day. Deceased was about 80 years of age."

—The camp of the National Guard of Pennsylvania at Lewistown is looked forward to with much pleasure by the command. The whole guard of the state will be present and there will be a generous rivalry between the three brigades to excel each other. The commands will go into camp on Saturday, Aug. 6, and will remain until the following Saturday. Each man will receive $7.50 pay and his rations, and will have a pleasant ride to the mountain regions of Pennsylvania. The camp will be one of instruction and no efforts will be spared to teach the officers and men the duties of soldiers in active service.

A professor of French, in an Albany school, recently asked a pupil what was the gender of academy. The unusually bright pupil responded that it depended on whether it was a male or female academy.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Sue J. Hess, beloved wife of Jonathan Hess, and eldest daughter of the late Capt. James Dunlap, died at her husband's residence in Pine Grove, this county, June 2d, 1882, aged 45 years, seven months and 16 days.

This estimable christian lady by her many noble traits of character had endeared herself to a large circle of friends. Many will remember her from early youth; perhaps picture her in the bosom of her father's family as the loving elder sister and the faithful daughter ministering to the comfort of an invalid mother; or perhaps, will recall her as she moved amid the pleasure-seeking throng, contributing in her amiable and unselfish manner to the enjoyment of all. Others will remember her in the Sabbath school, or picture her kneeling at the altar of prayer, assuming the vows which united her to the Lutheran church, the church of her choice, and which profession she adorned for so many years, by her devotion to all its interests and her exemplary life.

Now, we see her in her bridal robes; then as the years go by we behold her bowed with grief and clad in mourning following the little caskets, with their precious dust, one by one, until they numbered four, to the village church-yard. It was at her own hospitable fire-side, as a wife and mother, that we learned to know and appreciate her true worth; it was here that her christian graces shone with their brightest lustre; she had been through the school of affliction, and had learned that hardest of lessons—resignation and submission. The same ennobling principles characterized her life until its close, no murmuring, nor impatience; no premonition that this was her last sickness, nothing save a growing desire for peace and rest—a spiritual longing for reunion with her sainted loved ones in the "Better Land."

Our Heavenly Father knoweth these soul-longings. He knoweth when life's mission has been fulfilled, or when the cross is too heavy to be borne and "so He giveth his beloved sleep."

"Like weary and worn-out children that sigh for the daylight's close,
He knows that they oft are longing for home
and its sweet repose;
So He calls them in from their labors ere the shadows around them creep,
And silently watching o'er them he giveth
His loved one sleep."

To the guardian care of the tender Shepherd we would commend the bereaved ones, the husband with the remaining children—James and Mary, praying that a faithful mother's precepts and example may lead them into paths of righteousness, that when their life-work is ended they may form an unbroken family in Heaven.

ALTOONA, June 13, 1882.

—We have not heard of any unprecedentedly excellent fishing in this vicinity, but the high water in some parts of the State seems to have increased the number of fish in the streams in the localities where it prevailed to a large degree. We are informed that it is quite an ordinary occurrence for two hundred trout to be caught in one day by a single person from the streams near Wilkesbarre. The principal angling done here is at the grocery store of Sechler & Co., where people all go to procure the best groceries. They are always successful, because Sechler constantly keeps them. He does not perceive the use of a grocery store unless it contains whatever people want to buy in that line. His canned fruit is the finest that has ever been brought to Bellefonte, and his cheese is universally acknowledged to be the purest, sweetest and best ever used. We do not pretend to understand his secret for keeping such a model grocery, but must acknowledge that it is so.

Festival Notes.

The weather was favorable on Friday night.

All the interest of the town was centered in the rooms and all the beauty of the town was gathered there.

Every table was adored with an elegant bouquet of rare flowers.

It was very kind and thoughtful o Mr. McMillan, of the Brockerhoff House, to send his music box. It threw the orchestra in the shade.

Every kind of ice cream under either the sun or gaslight was on hand in inexhaustible quantity.

The strawberries were the finest that have been brought to Bellefonte this season.

The Chinse lanterns on the building presented an attractive display.

Everybody was very generous in donating ice cream and cake and all was of excellent quality.

Persons of all denominations were present.

Quite an assemblage of dish washers kept guard in the boys' reading room.

—A fine line of groceries constantly at Harry Teats & Co's store.

—With the understanding that we should not mention any names, the fact was communicated to us that certain parties drove from this place to the top of Nittany mountain on Friday evening and that while on their way homeward they came to grief by their horses running away and the vehicles in which they rode (there were two of them) careening over the hillside and being smashed to smither'eens. The way of the pleasure-seeker is oft-times hard.

—Harry Green is the lightning cigar seller, and all the cigars purchased of him are first-class.

—The Lycoming County Agricultural Society elected Messrs. Joseph Haul, J. W. Hayes and James M. Irvin to represent that organization at the annual election of trustees for the State College, on the 28th inst.

—Mr. Joseph M. Belford's subscription school began on Monday.

—Philipsburg had one case of small pox, but the victim is now dead.

—Harry Teats & Co. is the best place to buy groceries.

—An unusually large number of strangers were in town on Sunday.

—The beautiful spring received a much needed cleaning out on Friday.

—Whether you buy little or much, be sure to get all your groceries of Sechler.

—S. H. Barrett & Co's circus visited Altoona on Saturday and was pronounced good.

—The Eighth Avenue Methodist church, of Altoona, celebrated "Children's Day" last Sunday.

—If you want enough cigars to last over Sunday, step into Green's drug store, and tell Harry to select some of his best for you.

—The Rev. J. F. Delong preached to a large and deeply interested congregation on Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church.

—The Episcopal table, presided over by Misses Kate Jackson, Mary Gephart and Mrs. Lane, took in the most money at the festival.

—Several conveyances containing gypsies passed through town Monday. The mysterious company is probably encamped some place in this vicinity.

—Fresh, pure and excellent groceries at Harry Teats & Co.'s store. Mr. T. is an experienced grocer and understands the requirements of this locality.

—A well-known livery man of this place had a lively scrimange Monday with two men who had damaged one of his conveyances. He came out first best.

—The model grocery store in Bellefonte is that of Sechler & Co., in the Bush House block. If people want choice groceries that's where they go to get them.

—It is not only the grass and trees that are radiantly green, but an application of paint of that color is being applied to the entrances to the business places in Mr. E. C. Humes' block.

—Our contemporaries, the Watchman and Democrat, seem to be somewhat at sea in regard to the word æsthetic, using it as if it were synonymous with "odd" or "peculiar," whereas its real significance is quite the reverse.

—At an informal meeting of Democrats held on Prothonotary Harper's front porch Sunday night it was unanimously voted that Don Cameron's goose is cooked. It is thought that when Don hears of this he'll throw up the sponge immediately.

—The barber's sign in front of Cal. Green's shop in McCafferty's block, was washed away a short distance by the torrents of water that came rushing along High street on Friday afternoon. It was soon restored to its original position.

—We have at last succeeded. There was quite a large curb market Saturday morning, extending a long distance in front and on the eastern side of the court house grounds. This will continue throughout the summer as there are always plenty of buyers.

—Almost every newspaper, thus far, has informed its readers that the 21st of the present month will be the longest day in the year. We, however, give our readers the credit of knowing this, instead of repeating it every year. Give us something new and original.

—S. D. Tice, of Howard, recently found a very ancient coin—bearing date 1769—while plowing in his field. It is copper and about the size of a modern two-cent piece. The date and a few of the letters which resemble a Latin inscription are all that are discernable on its face.

—The question of dividing the Central Pennsylvania Diocese of the P. E. church did not come up at the meeting of church dignitaries recently held in Mauch Chunk, nor was an assistant bishop elected as Bishop Howe requested. An adjourned meeting will be held in October.

—The parties who went to Lewistown on Friday to participate in the picnic of the Mifflin County Veteran Club report a pleasant time, plenty to eat and an enthusiastic attendance. Many members of the G. A. R. post at Lewistown were prevented attending because of the funeral of one of their number.

—It is proposed to hold an ice cream and strawberry festival in Furst's Park, between West Linn and Lamb streets, instead of the regular in-door meeting of the Ladies' Mite Society, on Friday evening next, if the elements be propitious for such a gathering. The idea is excellent, and—to language more expressive than elegant—it is one that "will take" with the people.

Wedding Bells.

REES-BILGER.—At the residence of Major Wm. F. Reynolds, on Linn sreet by Rev. G. D. Pennepacker, at 7 o'clock on Thur day, the 15th instant, Mr. George W. Rees and Miss Mary C. Bilger, all of this place.

The wedding announced in the above notice proved to be a most happy one. Mr. Rees, the groom, has lived in Bellefonte only a brief time, but sufficiently long to win the esteem of a large circle of friends. The bride has served in the capacity of housekeeper for Major Wm. F. Reynolds during the past nine years, and the change which the occasion makes in his domestic surroundings was not a welcome one, but nevertheless he exerted himself to give the bride a good "send off" and arrangements were made on quite an extensive scale. Several friends of the Major's and the relatives of the bride and groom were present, Mrs. Lane performing a wedding march as the couple entered Mr. Reynold's large, handsome parlor. They were supported by Mr. Harry Schroyer as the groom's best man and Miss Bilger, a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, all looking very lovely. Rev. George Pennepacker said the words that made them husband and wife.

After a very sumptuous feast they entered a carriage and were driven to Zion, where they will spend a few days with the bride's relatives. On leaving the Major's residence, however, the carriage was ordered to proceed slowly and a certain vivacious lady member of the party threw an old shoe after them, which lucky missile passed directly over the carriage, and was followed by handfuls of rice. The presents received were useful and handsome. We unite with their freinds in congratulations.

Mind.

"Man," said the valedictorian at the commencement exercises of Williamsport Dickison Seminary, "was the crowning glory of God's hands. Being made in his image, he had grandly exemplified the high origin of his being, in the wonderful achievements of that faculty which distinguished him above all other creatures—mind. The law of man's mental being was gradual growth, and all the advancement it made in the world was only to fit it for the future." But a great advantage is that it leads a man to attend to his physical nature in purchasing groceries at Sechler's grocery store, where the purest and best can be found. Unless his mind teaches him to do this he might as well throw it away as worthless. But we believe in the future of the race in this part of the State, and that Bellefonte's glory will be perpetuated by feeding upon the groceries that Sechler only offers for sale. Visit Sechler before going elsewhere.

Tyrone's Extensive Paper Mill Burned.

From the Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Tribune we learn that the extensive paper mill owned by Morrison, Bare & Co., at the former place, was totally destroyed by fire at twenty-five minutes past 4 o'clock on Sunday morning. The fire did its work in a remarkably short time. Thus the work of from one and a half to two years was in less than an hour laid in ruins. The mill had only a short time before been completed in all its appointments. A fifteen thousand dollar machine had been placed in it, an eighty horse power Corliss engine, and other modern machinery amounting to about $60,000, making it a mill of ten tons capacity daily. The owners were just beginning to realize from their great outlay. By this sudden calamity one hundred men beside a number of women are thrown out of employment. The loss will reach $200,000; insurance, $115,000. It is not known whether the mill will be rebuilt. The origin of the fire is not known.

—Be sure to purchase of Harry Teats & Co. when you come to town.

—Some confusion is occurring in returning the ice cream freezers used at the Y. M. C. A. festival to the parties to whom they belong, the cover of one being placed upon another freezer and vice versa. Parties having received the wrong articles will confer a favor by returning them to the Association rooms, whence they will be sent to their rightful owners. Parties who have not yet received all their articles can obtain them by sending to the rooms.

—If you want to trade with a pleasant, affable salesman, visit the store of Harry Teats & Co.

—Two of the chimneys on the residence of ex-Congressman S. H. Yocum, near town, were struck by lightning on Saturday last during the heavy storm which visited this section. One of them was completely demolished and the other was slightly damaged. The bolt descended into the residence, tearing out a mantel and slightly shocking Mrs. Yocum, but no serious consequences ensued.

Republican Committee Meeting.

The Republican County Executive Committee met in response to the call of the chairman on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the office of Hastings & Reeder, to elect alternate delegates to the State Convention, to take the place of the regular delegates in case they shall not be able to attend.

On motion Col. D.S. Keller and Mr. E. C Humes were nominated and, on motion, the secretary was instructed to cast the ballot for the committee and the gentlemen in nomination were accordingly declared elected.

—Men's good straw hats 5c. apiece at the Boston Clothing House, just opened in Reynolds' Block, Bellefonte, Pa. 22-4t

At the change of every season sluggishness of the blood should be prevented by taking Peruna.

Should you be a sufferer from dyspepsia, indigestion, malaria, or weakness, you can be cured by Brown's Iron Bitters.

Now is the time to buy in what stock of dress goods, clothing, boots and shoes, etc., you need for this coming year, as Lyon Co. are closing out their stock at cost. The goods must be sold and prices will be slaughtered.

A pure, wholesome distillation of witch hazel, American pine, Canada fir, marigold, clover blossom, etc., fragrant with the healing essence of balsam and pine. Such is Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh. Complete treatment for $1.

—"How do you manage," said a lady to her friend, "to appear so happy all the time?" "I always have Parker's Ginger Tonic handy," was the reply, "and thus keep myself and family in good health and spirits." See adv.

Frank Blair has just opened another fine lot of solid silver ware, from the Gorham Co., which are put up in handsome satin cases. These goods, in connection with his stock of superior silver-plated ware, where the finest display of silver ware ever exhibited in town. As he is the agent for the Gorham Co., he sells at the factory retail prices. d-w-t-f.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which sulphur, sugar of lead, and nitrate of silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggists for it. Each bottle is warranted. Smith, Kline & Co., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. Crittenton, New York. 14 24 1y

Fatal Mistake!

Come to find out many parties in this section have made a mistake in not calling at the Boston Clothing House, just opened, in Reynolds' block, opposite Brockerhoff House, Allegheny St., Bellefonte, Pa. Some have been mistaken in the place and bought clothing, boots and shoes, etc., in many places where they have to pay nearly double what they could purchase the same goods for at the above mentioned establishment. It is a fatal mistake to those who have already bought their spring and summer clothing, boots and shoes. Parties in need of such goods are advised not to purchase before calling at the Boston Clothing House, Bellefonte, Pa. Many small country dealers are supplying themselves at that house, therefore you can imagin how cheap the concern can afford to sell goods. It is the cheapest place in the world. Just try it. 14 25 2w

LETTING.—Bids for the erection of a new school house in Snow Shoe township will be received until Saturday, July 1st, 1882. Specifications can be seen by applying to the secretary. Work must be done by Sept. 15. The School Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Bee Hive Stores.

THE GREAT

BEE HIVE

ONE PRICE STORES,

BELLEFONTE, PA

REASONS WHY

$10,000 worth of Goods can be sold Cheaper at the Celebrated

Bee Hive One Price Stores

Than by any other concern in the State.

Not because we deal in everything—but just because we don't—as we have never lost sight of the Jeffersonian maxim, "He who aims to be Jack of all trades can be master of none."

We devote ourselves exclusively to the special lines which we thoroughly understand buy exclusively for CASH and in

Large Quantities,

Therefore saving the profit of middle men, which dealers in a General Stock have to pay and of which we always give our customers the benefit. It being a well attested fact in consequence of our large and constantly increasing sales.

On account of the backwardness of the season we have just gone through every department and

MARKED DOWN

Our Entire Summer Stock.

You are most respectfully invited to come and look at a

NEW, CLEAN AND DESIRABLE STOCK OF GOODS.

We never allow any goods to become shop worn, but put them on the bargain counter at once. Besides we are daily in receipt of Novelties from our New York office.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT!

For the next 30 days, or until sold, we offer our entire stock of Men's and Boys'

Boots and Shoes,

at a reduction of 25 per cent., for the reason that we intend to give up that Department to make room for other goods.

Dry Goods, Gents Furnishing Goods,
Carpets, Oil Cloths, Hats,
Caps, Boots and Shoes,
MERCHANT TAILORING,
Cheaper than ever. Come and be convinced.

Very Respectfully Yours,

Save Money When You Can!

ANY ONE CAN SAVE IT BY FOLLOWING THE ADVICE BELOW.

GROCERIES.

We are selling all classes of Groceries at prices below any grocery store in Bellefonte, showing a saving of 3 cents per pound on as staple an article as Coffee; 10 cents on Syrups; 2 cents on Bacon; from 10 to 25 cents per bushel on Potatoes; a few cents on every article of everyday consumption that goes into the house. Produce we always sell at same prices which we pay for it, thereby saving the consumer an extra profit that is always charged by exclusive grocery stores.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

We are selling all kinds of Boots and Shoes in wonderfully large variety and extra good quality, at prices far below any exclusive shoe store in Centre County. Quality guaranteed as good as can be made, and prices speak for themselves.

CLOTHING.

We are selling all sizes of Men's, Youth's, Boys' and Children's Clothing at an enormous saving on any exclusive clothing store, guaranteeing linings, trimmings and workmanship superior to any other ready-made Clothing sold in this county, and equal to any custom-made work. Patches are furnished with all children's suits. We make a specialty of the celebrated Stein, Adler & Co.'s manufacture, of Rochester, which is conceded by all to be the best in the United States.

CARPETS.

We are selling all grades of Carpets, ranging from the cheapest to the best, at lower prices than any store in Bellefonte, and have the largest variety to be found in the County, which has only to be seen to be verified. Carpets cut, fit, made and laid down in your houses on short notice.

DRY GOODS.

In Dry Goods we are determined not to be undersold, and have an exceedingly large stock, comprising everything in the line that the name implies. Dress Goods in every new shape out, Muslins, Calicos, Linens, House Furnishing Goods, in fact anything and everything, bought right and offered right.

NOTIONS.

In Notions and Trimmings our stock is full of novelties, at the very lowest prices.

GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS.

Hats, Caps, Shirts, Suspenders, Collars, Cuffs, Hosiery, etc. Just call and convince yourselves. Room won't allow us to explain fully.

Why can we do all this? Simply because we deal in everything. We make a specialty of each department; neither one branch or the other of our ever increasing business need be largely profitable, but a very small margin in either sums up to satisfy us.

ALL KINDS OF COUNTRY PRODUCE WANTED.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The Situation in Egypt.

LONDON, June 13.—The correspondent of the Times at Cairo telegraphs that unless there is an overwhelming Turkish force at Alexandria before Sunday, there will be a worse outbreak than last Sunday. He says the prestige of Dervisch Pasha has disappeared.

A later dispatch from Alexandria announces the arrival of the khedive and Dervisch Pasha at Raseltin palace, which can be protected by the guns of the fleet.

A correspondent at Alexandria states that the Europeans are leaving there as fast as they can. The consuls have issued proclamations exhorting the Europeans to remain tranquil and expressing confidence in the army to be able to maintain order. One hundred persons were killed in the riot on Sunday.

The position is a terrible one. Any small force a fleet could land would only suffice to excite the Arabs to a general massacre.

CAIRO, June 13.—Dervisch Pasha and Arabi Pasha did not go to Alexandria, as announced, but only sent aides de camp. There have been numerous assaults upon Europeans by Arabs in Cairo.

ALEXANDRIA, June 13.—The English man-of-war Superb came around to the harbor on Sunday at midnight. The report that she was about to land marines to protect the consulate having spread, soldiers directly crowded the beach and the boats of the Superb were ordered to keep off. The proportion of Arabs killed in the late riot is insignificant. The fleet is almost the only source of danger. When the French stationed their vessel opposite their consulate to receive refugees she was immediately surrounded by Egyptian steam launches, which remain, and a collision may occur at any moment.

Maine Republicans.

PORTLAND, Me., June 13.—The Republican state convention met this morning and was called to order by Senator Frye. Mr. Frye then read the call of the convention and nominated Eugene Hale for temporary chairman. He was received with much enthusiasm. Mr. Hale said that one of the largest conventions ever held in Maine attests the undying vigor of the republican party of the state. This campaign must end the contest. It will be a battle worth winning. Governor, congressmen, senator and county officers are to be chosen. You do not want Governor Plaisted to be continued in his seat, but you do want my distinguished and eloquent colleague to retain his seat in the senate for six years more. Referring to President Arthur, Mr. Hale said he believed the president was trying to bring all shades of the republican party into accord. He has a difficult task, but discharges it wisely.

Colonel Robie was nominated for governor on the first ballot by thirty-two of a majority.

The following persons were then nominated: For congress, Thomas B. Reed, Nelson Dingler, Jr., Charles A. Boutelle, and Seth D. Milliken.

Mr. Robie, the nominee for governor, addressed the convention, thanking the delegates for his nomination.

Episcopal Convention.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., June 13.—The Episcopal diocesan convention of central Pennsylvania met in St. Mark's church this evening. Organization was preceded by a full choral service, led by the Reading cathedral choir and conducted by Canon Morrow, of the cathedral, as precentor. Rev. C. Kenlock Nelson, rector elect of the Church of the Nativity, of South Bethlehem, took the early part of the service, Bishop M. A. DeWolfe Howe announcing the absolution. The lessons were read by Rev. H. C. Swentzell, of Grace church, Honesdale. After the service the convention was called to order by Bishop Howe and Dr. Lamberton, president of Lehigh university. The secretary called over the list of the clergy and lay delegates. The bishop then read a part of his address, announced the committees and the convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. The attendance of delegates is full.

Commencement.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The 128th annual commencement of Columbia college was celebrated this morning in the academy of music. Greek and Latin poems were recited and orations on various topics were delivered. The degree of bachelor of arts was conferred on 45; bachelor of science on 2; engineer of mines on 22; civil engineers on 4; bachelor of philosophy on 11 candidates; doctor of philosophy on 2, and master of arts on 6 candidates.

Western Union Telegraph Company.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The quarterly report of the Western Union telegraph company for the three months ending June 30 shows the net revenue in that period, based upon nearly completed returns for April, partial returns for May and estimating the business for June, to be about $1,050,000. The committee recommended a dividend of one and one half per cent., payable on the 15th of July.

A Severe Thunder Storm.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 14.—The severest thunder storm of the season came last night. Two inches of rain fell during the night. At 7 o'clock this morning Pogus run commenced rising rapidly, and in two hours had flooded that portion of the city east of the Union depot along the Union railway track as far north as Maryland street and northeast to Washington street. The cellars of the wholesale houses on South Meridian street, south of George, are rapidly filling up. While a party of fifteen or thirty were standing on a platform over the Pogus run it gave way, dropping all into the water. Some of them were rescued immediately. Others passed through the culvert under the Union depot and were rescued below, while others, it is supposed, were drowned. One report says nine were drowned.

Five dead bodies have been recovered. They are these: Katie Gilderman, George F. Scoville, A. K. Saunders, attorney-at-law, Edward Tilford, son of S. E. Tilford, and George W. Smith, of Clearmont. Other bodies have been seen floating, but it was impossible to reach them. It is supposed that at least ten persons were drowned.

Fleeing from Egypt.

LONDON, June 14.—The correspondent of the Times at Cairo states that Sir Edward Malet, the English consul general, desires the British residents to quit Egypt without official request, which might produce a panic. He will remain here a few days to reassure public feeling.

The Times correspondent at Alexandria telegraphs that the soldiers are openly asking for the deposition of the khedive, and declaring that they will if necessary, oppose Turkey herself.

The correspondent of the Daily News at Alexandria states that not only women and children are leaving the country, but men with large material interests in Egypt are begging passages and leaving their property behind. Many large capitalists are arranging to leave Egypt permanently, not in panic, but after calmly calculating the cost of such a step.

The Strikers.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—There is nothing new in the iron situation. The committee appointed by the last convention of the Amalgamated association to revise the constitution and report to the next annual meeting to be held in August in Chicago, met this morning. The committee consists of William Weihe, Pittsburg; Samuel Hackwelder, Allegheny; A. B. Doane, Benwood, West Virginia; Joseph Grounds, Chicago; Perry Edwards, Youngstown; Charles S. McCord, Thurlow, Pa.; John Jarrett and William Martin. All were present except President Jarrett, who is in St. Louis and reported ill. The only business transacted was to receive suggestions from the several lodges. No definite action has yet been taken, and whatever shall be done will not be promulgated until the regular report is made to the convention at Chicago.

Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 14.—One hundred more men went to work in the Cleveland rolling mills than yesterday. The same Bohemians who were stoned last evening returned this morning, but were not molested. The mills are practically in a fortified condition. They are fenced in and garrisoned by a strong force of well armed men, who are quartered there day and night, ready for service in case the strikers attack the works, as they threatened to do. Mayor Harrick this morning conferred privately with the officers in command of the infantry and artillery companies. Hitherto the police have acted on the defensive, but last night's riotous demonstration has determined the authorities to adopt more vigorous measures to prevent violence.

A $1,450,000 Fire.

MONTREAL, June 13.—A terrible fire is in progress to-night in Clendinning's block, Victoria square. It originated in Miller Son & Co.'s book binding and stationary store and extended to the following premises, all of which are now gutted: Greenchild Sons & Co., dry goods; McIntyre & French, dry goods; Clendinning, stoves. Losses: Miller, $150,000; Greenschild's, $350,000; McIntyre & Co., $400,000; Clendinning, building and stock, $550,000. Insured in all the leading English and Canadian offices for three-fourths of the value.

Republican Convention.

RELEIGH, N. C., June 14.—The republican state convention has nominated Mr. Dockery for congressman-at-large, Mr. Folk for the supreme court and the other nominees of the liberal convention except Jacob A. Long.

A Big Fire.

DETROIT, Mich., June 13.—An entire block of wooden buildings at Dowagiac was burned this morning, including the City hotel and the Republican newspaper office. Loss not yet stated, but is quite heavy with but little insurance.

Terrible Hale Storm.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 13.—A Little Rock special from the Indian territory says a terrible hail storm passed over Broken arrow and the surrounding country yesterday. The damage to crops and property is very heavy. Several lives were lost.

A runaway match—The one you want to find in the dark.

H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sirs—Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has completely cured me of a painful kidney trouble, and I have no fear of a return of the disorder.

W. P. BENNETT, 5 Dodge Avenue.

It is all very well for health journals to tell people who are restless and unable to sleep at night to place the head of their bed toward the north, but it does no good unless you take the baby to the other end of the house and place his head toward the south.

Nobody enjoys the nicest surroundings if in bad health. There are miserable people about to-day to whom a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic would bring more solid comfort than all the medicines they have ever tried.—News.

A gentleman recently about to pay his doctor's bill, said: "Well, doctor, as my little boy gave the measels to all my neighbors' children, and as they were attended by you, I think you can afford, at the very least, to deduct ten per cent. from the amount of my bill for the increase of business we made you."

Parents who allow their children to grow up with scrofulous humors bursting from every pore are guilty of a great wrong. Think of them pointed out as branded with a loathsome disease, and you will readily procure them the Cuticura Remedies.

Child to her grandma—"Anna Dickinson is to appear in "Crown of Thorns' to-morrow night." "Goodness gracious, child, what on airth has the poor gal been doin?" "It's in a play, grandma." "Oh!" with a sense of relief, and the old lady picked up a stitch she had dropped.

What I know of patent medicines is just what I have experienced by the use of one single article, Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy. I give this puff gratis, for 50 cents does not seem a sufficient recompense for the cure of a disease (Piles) that cost me 50 dollars heretofore, without experiencing relief.—Monitor.

"What time is it, my dear?" asked a wife of her husband, whom she suspected of being drunk, but who was doing his best to look sober. "Well, my darling, I can't tell, 'cause you see there are two hands on my watch and each points to a different figure, and I don't know which to believe."

On account of the sudden changes in the temperature at this season and in this climate, it is almost impossible to keep free from colds and coughs; but a prompt use of N. H. Downs' Vegetable Balsamic Elixir will prevent any serious result from a sudden cold and effect a speedy cure. If you are bilious, or have the jaundice, sick headache or dizziness, try Baxter's Mandrake Bitters.

"If I thought I was going to become gray, I know I should die!" exclaimed Miss Springle. And when she turned gray, she did dye, sure enough.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, free of charge. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph Inman, Station D., New York City 14 1 26t

Marwood, the British hangman, places the gallows on a level with the ground and digs a well nine feet underneath for the drop. He evidently takes his cue from the doctors—wants to get his bungling work under ground as quick as possible.

The inspiration of to-day is for the duties of to-day, for holy living and effectual working.

The man who leaves dirty water in a wash basin gets a much shorter pair of wings than any of the other angels.

"Melinda, I don't like the looks of that lover of yours." "Why, papa, dear?" "I don't think he's possessed of staying qualities." "Papa, then his looks deceive you awfully. He's superabundantly blessed with staying qualities. Why, he'd stay to breakfast if I'd let him."

"Yield not to misfortune." Give Ely's Cream Balm a thorough trial if you would be cured of catarrh, hay fever, catarrhal deafness, or quickly relieved of colds in the head

Cream Balm effectually cleanses the nasal passages of catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions, allays inflammation and irritation, protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores the sense of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure catarrh, hay fever, &c. The Balm is easy to use and agreeable. Sold by druggists at 50 cents. On receipt of 50 cents will mail a package. Send for circular with full information. ELY'S CREAM BALM CO., Owego, N. Y.

Never ask a woman her age—that is, not that woman. Ask some other woman.

Delicate Females.

The exactions of society, added to the cares of maternity and the household, have tested beyond endurance the frail constitutions which have been granted the majority of women. To combat this tendency to premature decline, no remedy in the world possesses the nourishing and strengthening properties of Malt Bitters. They enrich the blood, perfect digestion, stimulate the liver and kidneys, arrest ulcerative weaknesses, and purify and vitalize every function of the female system.

Can anything go, and not go anywhere? Where does a light go when it goes out?

TESTED AND FOUND WORTHY.

In order to bring more fully before the notice of the people the value of a true and tried remedy, we give the following reliable testimonial from one of the many who have been cured, and whose reputation for veracity cannot be questioned.

WOODBURY, N. J., March 20, 1882.
SWEDISH BITTERS CO.:
GENTLEMEN.—I have suffered with dyspepsia and its horrible effects for many years. Have spent hundreds of dollars with physicians and in patent medicines, with no avail. I have been unable to eat meats of any kind, and could not retain water on my stomach, and was unable to sleep at night. I was induced to procure and try a bottle of your Swedish Bitters, and can conscientiously say that its use was followed by beneficial results. I can now sit down and enjoy a hearty meal of meats and vegetables of any kind and have gained sixteen pounds in three weeks and can cordially recommend it to others.
Yours respectfully,
AUGUSTUS PREHL,
Prop'r of Woodbury City Coach Line, Prehl's Livery and Accommodation Stables.

The above statement can be relied on.
WM. D. SCOTT,
Ex-Mayor of the City of Woodbury, N. J.

Swedish Bitters is a sure cure for dyspepsia, kidney and liver complaint, Biliousness, and all diseases of the stomach. Give it a trial and you will see that the test of Swedish Bitters is the proof of its merit. Manufactured by SWEDISH BITTERS CO., Woodbury, N. J. Sold by all druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

The Nation,

Since its consolidation with the New York Evening Post, has increased its facilities in every department, enlarged its size to twenty-four pages, and added many able writers to its previous list. It is now pronounced by many of its readers to be better than ever before.

Established in 1865, the Nation was a pioneer in this country as a weekly journal of literary and political criticism of the highest order, conducted free from the control of party or interest of any sort. Despite a precarious support during the first few years, it held persistently to its original aim until its financial success was assured. Meanwhile it had become a recognized authority at home and abroad; its editorial management has been unchanged from the first, and its projectors intend that, with their present facilities, the Nation shall become more than ever before the medium of the ablest thought of the time.

The form and style of the paper are chosen with a view to the most suitable shape for binding, and a set of the Nation preserved, bound, and indexed, makes the most complete and readable record of current events of importance in the political and literary world available for the American public.

—The wife of Rev. Zeigler, at the Intersection, is quite ill.

—June, the month of smiles and sunshine, is doing herself credit thus far.

—The fountain in front of the residence of D. G. Bush, Esq., sends forth its gentle spray during the twilight hours.

—The next "piano fund" concert will be a very fine affair. The date appointed for it is the 29th of this month.

—Two pages of that over-grown register at the Bush House were filled on Tuesday by the arrivals at that popular hotel.

—The Altoona Tribune gives Walter Bayard all the initials an ordinary person could desire to his name. "A. W. W. Bayard" is the way that paper records it.

—The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Reserves will be held at Gettysburg this year on the 26th of July. Next year, however, they will come to Bellefonte.

—Webster Bair, the youthful and gentlemanly editor of the Philipsburg Journal, sojourned in Bellefonte on Tuesday, giving this office the compliment of a brief visit.

—By a note which we received on Tuesday from Port Matilda, we would imagine that horse-trading is the principal occupation now being carried on in that vicinity.

—The handsome new Reformed church edifice remains in a semi-finished condition. We hope the congregation will soon be able to raise money enough to complete it free of debt.

—"Corporal," of Stormstown, is our most valued correspondent. For giving news in a readable shape he "takes the cake" over all other rural scribes. We commend his correspondence to their attention.

—Linn street young ladies take their seats at the piano in the early morning hours and go through the process of "running the scales," but in nine cases out of ten it would be nearer the truth to substitute an "i" for the first "n" and say that they are "ruining the scales."

—Mr. C. H. Struble, of near State College, is rapidly increasing his operations in mining and hauling ore from the rich deposits recently found on his land in that vicinity. During last week he hauled 234 tons, and in one day with 20 teams he transported 49 tons. The ore is considered very superior in quality.

—An excursion to the woods in the interests of the science of botany was made Thursday. The young lady known as the "lily of the valley" and also the one representing the (blue) "belle of the neighborhood" were there, accompanied by the young man who may be called the "flower of the family."

—The initial number of the Scranton Evening News has found its way to this office. It is brimful of reading matter of local interest, and should receive support from the enterprising people of that growing city. We wish it success so long as it remains "independent in everything, and neutral in nothing."

—Charlie Boas, an employe of the car works, met with a serious and painful accident last Tuesday while at work near a circular saw, the two fingers next the index finger of his left hand being cut off and his hand somewhat mutilated. He resides in the vicinity of Linn & McCoy's works. Dr. George Harris attended to his injuries.

—A movement is on foot to organize a Beaver Club composed of members of the 148th Regiment, P. V., of which General Beaver was colonel. A reunion of the regiment will be held in this place some time in September to further that object. It will be entirely unpolitical in its nature, the members being pledged to support no party candidates except Beaver.

—Many of our citizens are much concerned about the extensive use of the small snap pistols among children. Numerous instances are on record of death from lock-jaw caused by small particles from these pistols entering the hand or face. Parents should forbid their children using this dangerous weapon and thus perhaps avert disastrous consequenses.

—Will any of the public school teachers of this place attend the convention of the Teachers' State Association, which will meet in Pottsville, Schuylkill county, on the 5th of July? If so, they are informed that the rate of boarding at the hotels will be $1.25 and $1.75 per day. In addition to the exercises of the convention, all who attend will be offered an opportunity to examine into the process of mining and preparing anthracite coal for the market.

The Story of a Hog.

Centre county hogs are coming to the front to dispute with the cat the peculiar and exclusive privilege of possessing nine lives, and if a tithe of the stories are true they are making a valiant fight and establishing well their title to survive any number of deaths upon this sublunary sphere.

The Zion hog was a brillant example of its kind, but the wise people in the vicinity of Valentines' forge relate another story of a hog which is certainly an ornament to its race. It recently fell into the forebay where the water was four feet deep and the current swift and strong. Did that hog kick up its heels and breathe its last in a squeal of agony? Far be it from us to hint such a thing. No, it moved along with the resistless current, being completely submerged at least 200 times, and remained in the water eighteen hours. When taken from the water it was as wet as a drowned rat, but as lively as a young kitten, and it now lives to wallow in the mud and mire with the best of them.

—Circumstances which are unnecessary to relate at present rendered it necessary for parties on Bishop street, Wednesday afternoon, to end the existence of a troublesome canine. How to accomplish that feat successfully was at first a subject of some doubt to the parties directly concerned, but an extraordinarily happy thought led the chief movers in the scheme to invoke the aid of a certain far-famed duelist, whose consummate skill with the mortal weapon soon sent the objectionable cur to the land where the wicked cease from troubling and weary canines are at rest. He was at once the recipient of high praise and enthusiastic congratulations from those who had sought his kind offices, but our hero—never weary of doing good—proceeded at once to administer the same treatment to the "family dog," hopeful of equally good results. Two pistol shots pierced the faithful animal and an overdose of strychnine made it feel somewhat ill in the diaphram, but at latest advices the last-mentioned canine had not shuffled off this mortal coil But—all glory to the exterminator of useless dogs! He is indeed a "Knight of the Nineteenth Century."

—East Linn street people are indulging in all shades and varieties of paint to adorn their residences. Col. D. H. Hastings' neat frame house is fast assuming the shades of darkness. With its bronzed exterior and red painted roof it might be mistaken for the abode of an angel from the lower regions from whence the red flames leap up in fitful glow. The Judicial residence further along the street has all the colors which might combine to make a landscape painting, and only requires a collection of sun-flowers in the front yard with a bird of paradise on the roof and a peacock strutting in the rear to make it vie with the rainbow in beauty. The suburban dwelling of Mr. Sturdevant situated a few rods further on, upon a high knoll, is growing bright under the application of light drab paint. It will look fresh and neat when completed.

A Tragedy in Altoona.

John Boyles died last Thursday at the boarding house of Mrs. Ellen Norton, of Logantown, near Altoona, from injuries which are believed to have been inflicted with a knife in the hands of William F. Vanzandt, also a border at the same place, during a scuffle at 12 o'clock Weduesday night. Boyles was a large man and Vanzandt a small one, and as all the evidence shows that the former was the attacking party, there are many circumstance in the latter's favor, even if he did commit the murder. The victim of the tragedy was a native of Spruce Creek, Huntingdon county. Vanzandt's home is in Wayne township, Mifflin county, and he is said to bear an excellent reputation. He has been arrested.

—The ice man always treats persons coolly these torrid days, notwithstanding the warm reception that may be given him.

Stormstown Signals.

STORMSTOWN, Pa., June 12, 1882.

Mr. Editor: The death of Mr. Coleman Winn at Scotia was a sad affair. He was up on the trestle assisting some of his men to replace a car on the track when he slipped and fell back and down about twenty-five feet, striking on his head and shoulders, causing contusion of the brain, from which he died the next day. He was was a soldier in the late war and came from the Eastern part of the State.

An addition in the shape of a "Y" has been erected recently at Scotia and a train stops over night at that place.

John Biddle had his hand badly torn at the washers the other day. It was caught in an iron shaft. Dr. Kline, of this place, dressed the wound.

Messrs W. S. Gray and David Eves, both of this place, are on the sick list.

The old church of this place built in 1838 is no more. Mr. Frank Beyer, of Tyrone, is building the new one for $2,540.

The Watchman will have General Beaver annihilated before the balance of the ticket is nominated. I suppose all things are fair in love and war.

CORPORAL.

Funeral of Mrs. Houseal.

The remains of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Houseal, of Lock Haven, were brought to this place the 1ath inst. on the 5 p. m. train for interment. A large concourse of people from Lock Haven accompanied the remains, who were joined at the depot by many citizens from town, from whence the cortege proceeded to the cemetery. The pall-bearers were members of the G. A. R. post of Lock Haven, viz: R. H. McGhee, G. T. Michaels, Josiah Cander, A. H. Heller, I. B. Lesher and J. W. Devling. It was the request of Mrs. Houseal that the members of the post should officiate in this capacity.

The deceased lady had a large circle of acquaintance, by all of whom she is spoken of in terms of the highest praise. She was in the 62d year of her age.

—Chief Burgess John Powers, of this place, has issued a timely ordinance forbidding the use of firecrackers, torpedoes and other noisy explosives, within the borough limits, until the Fourth of July, on which day this means of showing patriotism may be indulged in to the heart's content, but it must be discontinued on and after the fifth of July. This is a very sensible proclamation, as many persons do not appreciate the sudden noise of such explosions at unexpected moments, horses are frequently frightened and caused to run away and buildings are in danger of being set on fire. We heartily commiserate with the Court House ring in the deprivation of an exalted privilege, but the proclamation of the Burgess must be obeyed.

—Mr. John M. Smith, a prominent citizen of Tyrone, died on Sunday and his funeral was appointed for Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. After the funeral services, which were held in Ashley church, Antis township, Blair county, the coffin was opened to give his friends a last view, when, to the surprise of all, signs of life were observed. A physician examined the body and the interment has been postponed. The public will await further developments with interest.

—The interment of the body of Mr. John M. Smith, of Tyrone, which was postponed on Tuesday because signs of life were thought to be visible, was finally made yesterday, unmistakable evidence of dissolution being apparent. The case caused much excitement in the vicinity, many false rumors being circulated in regard to it.

—On Tuesday evening a well-known lady who was passing along Allegheny street, a short distance south of Linn, tripped over some inequality in the board-walk and fell quite heavily. We have reason to believe that she was not seriously hurt, although her injuries might have been severe. We record the accident merely to draw the attention of property owners in all parts of town to the condition of the walks in front of their premises.

—The commissioners' and treasurer's offices in the Court House have been papered in a very tasteful manner. In the former apartment a railing has been constructed to separate the space occupied by the clerk from that used by other persons having business in the office. These improvements have been long needed and contribute materially to the comfort and appearance of the apartments.

—Passenger trains move in and out of Bellefonte at a very moderate rate of speed, as they should do.

—The annual meeting of the delegates to elect four trustees of Pennsylvania State College will be held in the College Chapel, at 2 o'clock p. m., on Wednesday, June 28. By the provisions of the amended Charter the members of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society and the members of the Franklin Institute of Pennsylvania, are ex officio, electors; and each County Agricultural Society, and each County Mining, Manufacturing or Mechanical Association in the State, organized at least three months before the time of meeting, is entitled to send three delgates as electors. By the said Charter the Alumni also are authorized to elect, at the same time and place, one trustee to serve for three years.

—Trees on the edge of sidewalks are desirable as protection from the rays of the summer sun, but in some respects they become a nuisance when so large as so lift the pavement out of place and thus render it uneven. Trees should be planted deep, and so far from the edge of the pavement as to prevent such uprisings. There are several places in this town where the benefit is not an off-set for the injury.

—We received a call last Thursday from Mrs. Winn, widow of the late Mr. Coleman Winn, who recently met such a sudden and terrible death while at work at the Scotia ore mines. Mrs. W. is a very estimable lady and the loss of her loving and devoted husband in so tragic a manner is to her a source of the deepest grief. She now resides at the home of her father, Mr. Christian Hartsock, on Buffalo Run.

—Bellefonters have almost concluded to lay aside their ulsters and heavy under-garments; but don't be too quick about it, for Vennor promises frost every month of the year.

Webster and the Little Giant.

While Douglas was a faithful partisan and a succesful politician he was a great statesman, a profound and sagacious leader, and one who was above all the petty, scurvy tricks of modern senators; and no man respected and loved him more than Daniel Webster, although they were the antipodes of each other. A single instance to prove this, and I have done. Soon after California was admitted I was in the State Department with Fletcher Webster, Charlie March, and Secretary-of-State Webster, when the latter said to me in his careful yet godlike manner, "Young gentleman, you know Senator Douglas well, my son tells me." "Yes, sir," I replied, "better than any living man. He was my schoolmate, my friend, and will do for me anything that I ask him." "Well," said he, hesitating and blushing almost, "President Fillmore has sent in all the federal appointments for California and my friends are disappointed. They are not properly cared for. I should like to have action on these nominations suspended until we can see and right them." "Very well," I replied, "I will see Douglas, and your wish shall be gratified." That evening, about 11 o'clock, I went to Douglas's room, found him just going to bed, told him Webster's wishes, got a carriage by his orders, and went with him to see Dr. Gwynn, then United States senator from California. Douglas told him our wishes, and then the doctor, a wonderful man then and now, took all the California appointments into his own hands, suspended them all for weeks, compelled Fillmore to change and recall some and alter others, and the Secretary of State and his friends were all well satisfied. While Douglas was true to his own party, he was true always to his friends; he was a most manly, noble, and great hearted man, whose fidelity to our country, our Union and our nation never faltered or wavered.

We dislike to intimate that it is possible for an editor to lie, but the statement in a Texas paper that a catfish that weighed 170 pounds was caught in the Brazos, justifies the apprehension that if the editor is not careful he may, unknowingly, learn to exaggerate, and then he will drift into politics or the pulpit. It is very difficult for a catfish to weigh 170 pounds. The catfish has no scales.

Silver Ware

ever offered in this town. I can show you ware heavier in the metal, finer in the finish, with more weight of silver to the square inch than you ever saw before. I am now buying nothing less than which is a grade heavier than any other. But one of the most important items relating to these goods is the price I can sell them at. Taking the exclusive sale of them in this county enables me to buy large quantities. Large quantities entitles me to the lowest prices and largest rebates. Giving you these advantages enables you to buy these fine goods, never higher, and sometimes lower than the most common goods which are entitled to be called silverware.

Local Department.

—Cherries are ripe in Lock Haven.

—Logan Branch rose rapidly on Friday.

—The hail storm did not bring cold weather.

—Bellefonte is beginning to fill up with strangers.

—It was very lovely after the storm cleared away Friday night.

—A delightful change in the weather took place Monday evening.

—The rain on Friday was the most sudden and severe of the season.

—The force of workmen at the car works has decreased to about fifty.

—The water ran into some of the cellars along Bishop street on Friday.

—The commencement exercises of Lewisburg University begin this week.

—Farmers in this vicinity are anxiously searching for laborers without finding them.

—The huge, thirteen-family tenement house near the car works has been painted white.

—A Longfellow commemorative meeting was held at Williamsport on Wednesday evening.

—Potatoes are too expensive for use and it is necessary to resort to strawberry short cake.

—A brilliant party took place Monday evening at the residence of Mr. John P. Harris on Linn Street.

—Our thanks are due Mrs. A. B. Steele for a pair of very fine spring chickens. They were beauties.

—Vegetation has advanced more rapidly during the past week than during all of the previous spring.

—The 5 p. m. train brings a collection of plants and flowers for some fortunate persons almost every day.

—If we were rich we would buy the car works, and as such things are often run on paper we are tempted to try.

—A party composed of several Bellefonte gentlemen have been away on a fishing expedition for several days.

—The Bellefonte Car Works, at the price for which they are offered, make one of the best investments in the market.

—The grounds on which the National Guard of Pennsylvania will encamp, have been called "Camp John Fulton Reynolds."

—Several members of the family of the late Judge Hale arrived in town on Friday to occupy the family residence during the summer.

—This office is enjoying a remarkable rush of job work for this season of the year. It necessarily, however, detracts from the work which would otherwise be put on the paper.

—Mr. H. Faux, the Wilkesbarre pedestrian, entertained a crowd on the Diamond Monday evening by exhibitions of rapid walking. The general opinion seemed to be that he could walk away from anybody in this vicinity.

—Some individual on Linn street is engaged in reducing the cat population of that vicinity. When through with the cats it is hoped he will turn his exterminating interests to the dog field. The harvest of the latter is abundant and ripe.

—We are requested to announce that the M. E. church of this place will be closed on Sunday next, although it was announced last Sunday that the services would be held as usual. Rev. Penepacker, the pastor, will be absent from town.

—Almost all the water was drawn off the race Saturday morning and the operation of cleaning the bed of its growth of grass and an accumulation of debris was in progress during the day. It is done with plows which pass up and down the stream. Sometimes mowers are used to cut the grass.

Closing Night of the Festival.

The festival and promenade concert given by the Y. M. C. A. was the chief feature of interest throughout last week in this place. On Thursday evening the receipts were about $35, on Friday night they reached $50 and on Saturday night the same amount was realized, making the entire receipts $135. As the expenses were less than $30 the net profits of the festival will be fully as much as was expected had the weather been favorable.

But Saturday night, as all well know, was about as disagreeable for such gatherings as it could possibly be. At intervals the rain fell in torrents and that any persons were present on that occasion shows that the people of this place have a deep interest in the affairs of the Association and an abiding confidence in its usefulness. We heard a gentleman from Chicago who was present say that he does not believe there is a town between Chicago and Philadelphia with the same population where an equal amount of interest in the affairs of such an organization would be shown by the people.

The thanks of the Association are due the people of the town for their generous contributions of cake and ice cream, of which there was always a plentiful supply on hand.

The members of the committee, under the direction of the chairman, Mr. Edward Garman, labored very faithfully. They drew to their aid a committee of about forty ladies, who have large experience in such affairs and without whose services the festival would have been a failure. On Friday and Saturday evenings the young men's orchestra was present part of the time and discoursed very excellent music.

Among the members of the committee who took the most active interest in all the arrangements we would mention Mr. Edward Garman, whom all will admit was the chief spirit in the counsels as well as the active work which made it so successful. He has excellent executive ability and a decided genius in managing enterprises of this character. His most active assistants were Wilbur Harris, Eddie Richards, Walter Bayard, Harry Schroyer, Washington Rees (previous to his wedding), John Rankin and others, whose names we do not now remember, but whose efforts will always be held in grateful appreciation by the Association. The gentlemen remained after the festival was over on Saturday night, washed up the dishes, removed the tables and made all things in readiness for the devotional meeting which took place as usual on Sunday afternoon. It was a good work and they are to be excused if Sunday morning did come before they finished it.

THE STORM.

Fatal Effects of Lightning at Scotia Ore Mines—The Storm at Other Points.

The storm of Friday afternoon was one of the most severe ever known in this section both in regard to the terrible effect of the thunder and lightning and the rain and hail which fell in blinding sheets. In the vicinity of the Scotia Ore Mines the lightning was most severe, persons residing there saying they never saw anything to equal it, and in one instance death was caused by a more than usually brilliant flash of the heavenly pyrotechnics.

The victim, Mr. Amos Shivery, was a man of 70 years of age. When the rain began to fall he went out of the house to give his attention to some young chickens which he feared would suffer in the blinding storm Driving the hen and chickens to a place of safety, he was just stooping down near a jack pine tree which was located about six feet from the house, when the electric flash descended. It struck the tree and thence glanced across his body, killing him instantly. Mr. Shivery leaves a wife and several children who have reached the estate of manhood and womanhood.

A team of horses which were standing in front of Mattern's store, about sixty feet from the pine, were also knocked down, but not seriously injured.

The lightning is described as exceedingly severe at Snow Shoe and also in the vicinity of Curtin, where the storm was also accompanied by hail. At Howard and Milesburg the amount of rain that fell was comparatively light. In this immediate vicinity the storm was terrifying in the extreme, floods of water flowed through the streets and had it continued long would have done much damage.

—George W. Dunbar, a gymnast with Barrett's circus, is a native of Johnstown. His real name is William Gerhardt, and while the circus was in Johnstown on Friday Mr. G. was presented with a gold medal by his friends at that place.

A College Collation.

STATE COLLEGE, June 19, 1882.

The Seniors are looking hopefully forward to the 29th, when they will grandly step off the carpet.

"Vulcan" says that he "feels like a ship in full sail, in sight of harbor." (He means Houserville, of course.) His twin brother, "Stump," gnaws the plug and expectorates like a Senator in meditation, or a boot-black in full blast, recounting his own adventures.

"Tommy" has anticipated time by moving to Bellefonte.

"Mac" wants the investigating committee to find out "the effects of keeping store at night on intellectual development;" also, "the number of hours per day a Senior should spend socially."

"Judge" wants the committee to investigate a "beam" that he has run across in the engineering department. It is said to "bend up in the middle when loaded, the weight of the beam keeping the ends down." He thinks the "beam" too light at both ends to stand the pressure of the department. He also wishes to know "how much a man of principle should deduct from a term grade, providing the student missed seeing the professor work a section pump and the department prize depended upon grade?"

"Saph" has applied to the executive committee for a wig. He says that he "needs a wig, and since the committee is generous, would rather have that than nothing."

"Skinny" and "Jack" smoke, drink chocolate and sigh for the commencement "mashes."

The Juniors are recognizable by their pale faces and knocking knees. "Grey Bill" has been buying finery for two weeks for the Wednesday evening performance.

Ill feeling has sprung up among the remaining members of the class on the moustache question. "Joe" finds merit in the scarcity of his, "Booby" in the "sweet" curve, "Lop" and "Hurdy" in the future prospect.

Caterwauling came to an untimely end the other day from the unerring aim of the "Plumed Knight" from Maine.

The two long Freshmen are preparing for another foot-race by making promiscuous visits to the Barrens.

The Preps are looming up and have raised another "dollar." For further information call upon "Bat."

JUMBO.

"Creation."

One of the most surpassingly beautiful sermons ever delivered in this place was that in the Episcopal church on Sunday morning by the talented rector, Rev. John Hewitt. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" he took for the basis of his remarks, and in terms of the most glowing and appropriate character described the beauties, wonders and marvels of creation and the matchless loveliness of the world as now fully illustrated to us in the bursting buds and blossoms and increasing verdure of the present season. Man is the centre of creation and around him all objects, animate and inanimate, linger merely to form a back ground for his distinct individuality and greatness. All power is given to him and by his presence upon this globe what would otherwise be a mere speck of dust in the universe is made a world of living wonder and beauty. He snatches the electricity from the clouds and makes it serve him by means of telegraph and telephone in iron harness. Of all the wonders of creation he is the most marvelous. While it is true that in the order of creation there is a regular progression from the most insignificant species up to man, yet there is no trace of parentage between them. He quoted the words of the greatest and saintliest of scientists—Agassiz—to enforce this view. The application of his remarks was made in language correspondingly eloquent and vivid. His discourse throughout was replete with glowing imagery, beautifully rounded periods, brilliant rhetorical figures, and similitudes which fastened deeply upon the minds of his auditors the full significance of his remarks. The topic is one well fitted for speakers possessed of brilliant descriptive powers and the utterances of Rev. Hewitt on this occasion have never been excelled in the pulpit or on the lecture platform in this place.

A Pedestrian Visitor.

H. Faux of Wilkesbarre, entertained the people on High street Friday evening with a pedestrian feat, walking from the United Brethren church to the Court House and back, making the distance of about a half-mile in 3 minutes and 18 seconds. A local pedestrian, who was bet $1 that he could not run the distance in the same time, succeeded in winning the wager.

—Lawrence L. Brown seems to have enough coal on hand to keep the people of Bellefonte warm all of next winter.

Items from Two Villages.

SPRING MILLS, June 15, 1882.

Quite a number of new houses are being put up here. The sound of the carpenter's hamemr can be heard on all sides.

Mr. James Krape, of Pine Grove, who lately was so unfortunate as to lose his house by fire, has bought David Burrell's residence and will take possession soon.

Prof. D. M. Wolf is away visiting Rev. John Evans, of Clarion county. He will return in a few weeks.

Mr. J. G. Evans, Sr., and lady, have gone west on a pleasure tour, expecting to visit their relatives and friends in that part of the country. They anticipate that this trip will consume the greater part of the summer.

Preparations are being made for a picnic in "Grenoble's Park" on the glorious Fourth. A special train from Sunbury is promised, and there will also be many other strangers from a distance. In the evening there will be a fine display of fireworks.

FARMER'S MILLS ITEMS.

A post-office has been established here, with John S. Auman postmaster. It rejoices in the name of Farmer's Mills.

Ice cream parties are in season, one being on the programmee for every week. These parties are highly amusing, but don't you think they have a tendency to make lovers too cold? Who will answer?

BEAN K.

A Delicious Dish.

Now that strawberries are here in all their glory—many fine specimens being already ripe in the gardens around this place—the way to prepare them is a word in season. To our taste nothing is more delicate and and inviting than a glass dish filled to the top with the lovely red berries with a layer of white sugar on top. These, partaken with cream, are fit for a monarch, although many persons consider them more healthful without the accessory of cream. Another desirable mode of preparation is strawberry shortcake, which may be made after the following recipe:

To one quart of sifted flour add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; rub into this a large tablespoonful of the best butter; wet with a sufficient quantity of buttermilk to form a soft dough, having first dissolved in the buttermilk one tablespoonful of soda; mix lightly, and bake immediately on a griddle; make the cake rather thick and about the circumference of a large dinner plate. When baked, and while warm, split and cover both sections freely with the best butter; cover the lower half thickly with the best and ripest strawberries; sprinkle the berries liberally with fine white sugar; cover the berries and lower half of the cake with the upper half as a lid; dust the lid with fine white sugar; saturate freely with the richest and sweetest cream.

Another Installment of the Dog Story.

The following card from Mr. C. H. Else, of Milesburg, will be understood and appreciated by all our readers who have perused the two previous chapters of the "Dog Story:"

Mr. Editor: While I had no thought of publishing an account of my child being bitten by the dog of Mr. Miles and I knew nothing of it being published until my attention was called to the article, I wish now to say that that statement was correct in every particular. Mr. Miles did not witness any part of the dreadful affair, but four or five other persons did beside myself, and while I was running toward the scene and saw the dogs turning upon my wife, my thought was, "She will be torn to pieces." Would any sane man think thus if the attacking animal were "a mere pup?" The smallest of the three dogs is a terrier, the next larger is a species of spaniel and is not small by any means, but the largest is a sort of mastiff, and one of the largest dogs in town. Competent judges say that he would weigh in the neighborhood of fifty pounds and he has been the terror of the people for months. But frightful as the affair was, and terrible as its consequences may yet be to my child, I regret being forced to make this statement, as it is one of the rules of my life to live peaceably with all men. C. H. ELSE.

A Brakeman Injured.

A frightful accident occurred at this place Monday afternoon at about 3 o'clock. Morris Lucas, of Unionville, a brakeman on the local freight, was coupling cars on Valentines' trestle near the depot. When the cars came together he was in a stooping position and did not move quickly enough, his head being caught between the bumpers of the cars. It is a miracle that he was not killed outright. The blood rushed from his ears and nose and it was found that his jaw was broken in two places. His injuries are doubtless very serious and may prove fatal. He was taken to his home at Unionville on the 5 p. m. train. It is said to be very difficult to couple cars at that point because of the curve necessarily made by the railroad.

—An editor was recently heard to remark with much truth: "Evil communications corrupt even the waste basket into which they are tossed."

A Trip to Gettysburg.

The approaching encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic on the historic field of Gettysburg is the most absorbing subject now demanding the attention of Gregg Post. Many members of the Post will go to view the field on which the conflict raged on that memorable day fraught with such important results to the Union, and thinking that other citizens may also desire to take advantage of the cheap excursion rates which the occasion offers they appointed a committee, at their meeting last Saturday evening, to superintend the arrangements. The committee is composed of Messrs. Austin Curtin, James H. Rankin and R. C. Irvin to any of whom those who desire to go may send their names and the money for the fare, which will be $4.36 the round trip. Those who wish to accompany the excursion will please state if they want board, which can be obtained for 75 cents per day in tents, or both board and lodging for $1 per day at private houses. The encampment will begin on the 22d of July, before which those who desire to go should notify the committee. It is a place of interest to all Pennsylvanians and one which they should visit if it is possible to do so.

—There has been a great deal said lately about the Pennsylvania railroad company's effort to cut down expenses, and there have been numerous exaggerated reports afloat regarding the number of men discharged. The fact is the hands whose services have been dispensed with do not number over 1,500 and the majority of these are workingmen who were employed in constructing new sidings and branches, grading, laying ties, rails, etc., and building stations, the greater number of them being day laborers. At the shops of Altoona and at other points the construction work has been cut down and this necessitates the discharge of some iron workers and car builders. The general depression in business brought about this action. The monthly statements of the company have made rather a poor showing of late, caused by a falling off in and the continuance of the heavy expenses attendant upon the track, building and car locomotive construction, and in order to bring the expenses to accord in a measure with the earnings the shaving off in expenses has been resorted to.—Ex.

—The Presbyterian Mite Society will make a new and very pleasing departure this week by holding the regular semi-monthly meeting, which occurs on next Friday evening, out-of-doors, "beneath the blue vault of heaven," provided, of course, the weather does not interfere. Furst's Park," opposite that gentleman's residence on Linn street, is the place of assemblage. The grounds are to be illuminated with colored lanterns on that occasion, and a string band will be in attendance to add its bewitching strains to the musical gurgle of the creek which flows below. Under such charming circumstances the meeting should be largely attended, as it no doubt will be.

—The Democrat is in error when it says that the REPUBLICAN suggests keeping the day on which Guiteau is to be hung a holiday. The language of the item is "It is proposed," which implies it to be merely an idle suggestion such as is heard every day. No, there is no more reason for keeping it a holiday than that on which Judas Iscariot hanged himself. Nothing is needed to perpetuate his infamous memory.

—St. John's day, June 24, is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the right worshipful grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania and Masonic jurisdiction thereunto belonging, and the day is to be appropriately celebrated in Philadelphia. Addresses will be delivered by Grand Master Samuel B. Dick, Governor Hoyt, Judge Williams and J. Simpson Africa.

Events at the Nail Works.

On Thursday last the first nails were turned out at the nail works, and on Friday five kegs of nails were manufactured.

About fifty-five men are now at work, which number is being gradually increased.

The works shut down on Satuday because of some difficulty connected with the water supply, caused by the storm on Friday afternoon.

—We have received a circular regarding the forthcoming meeting of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association at Pottsville, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 5, 6 and 7. The proceedings will be full of interest to teachers and all who attend will be greatly benefitted.

—The operatives at the exchange say that the lightning of Friday tore thunder out of the telephone apparatus. That is doubtless what occasioned so many loud reports.

Personal and Particular.

J. Willard Miller returned home Monday evening.

Mr. Calvin Weaver returned on Friday from a business trip to Mifflin county.

Miss Lingle, of this place, is entertaining her friend, Miss Jones, of Philipsburg.

Mrs. Ellen Reed, of Clearfield, is visiting at the residence of Mr. Joseph A. Rankin, in this place.

Misses Bertie Alexander and Mary McKee left on Monday for Chambersburg, where they will visit friends.

Mr. James Sommerville and family departed on Thursday to Snow Shoe, where they will reside during the summer.

Mr. Charles Valentine and Mr. James Hughes have returned home from school to spend their summer vacation.

Rev. John Hewitt arrived home on Friday afternoon from attendance on the late church gathering in Mauch Chunk.

Mr. Edward Powers is enduring the companionship of a well-developed carbuncle, which disturbs his nocturnal slumbers.

Mr. John Hastings, of Ohio, nephew of our popular townsman, D. H. Hastings, Esq., is now visiting him at his residence on Linn street.

Mr. Wm. Marshall, of West Chester is visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. K. Hicks. Miss Leedam, of Delaware county, is also a guest at the same place.

Hon. S. H. Reynolds, who has been nominated for congress by the Democrats of Lancaster county, is a brother of Major William F. Reynolds and Mr. Thomas Reynolds.

Misses Jennie and Annie Orvis, daughters of Judge John H. Orvis, of this place, returned home on Saturday from Clifton Springs, N. Y., where they have been attending school.

Mr. John Wagner, of Spring street, who has recently been in Philadelphia, under the treatment of an experienced occulist, has returned home with his sight much improved although not entirely restored.

D. H. Bates and family, relatives of Mr. Bond Valentine, arrived in town on Friday morning, and are now guests at Mr. V's residence. Mr. Bates is general manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

Miss Ella, the accomplished daughter of our townsman, Dr. Rhone, returned home from boarding school on Thursday afternoon. She graduated this year with high honors. As a pupil she has always been exceedingly studious and naturally excels in all undertakings involving mental application and power.

Three editors tarried in Bellefonte on Monday. They were Messrs. George Shrom, of the Newport (Perry county) Ledger; E. Conrad, of the McVeytown (Mifflin county) Journal, and James H. Irvin, of the Blair county Radical. They are a committee of the Juniata Valley Printers' Association and are making arrangements for the picnic of that organization to be held in this place on the 1st of September.

Mr. George W. Jackson is confined to the house with injuries received some time ago while trying to drive his cow home. We do not know exactly how the accident occurred, but in some manner the blood vessels of his arm were mutilated, making the injury even more painful and inconvenient than a broken arm would be. It is very unpleasant for a man naturally so active and enterprising as Mr. J. to be thus kept away from his business pursuits.
